Congressional Concern Over Berlin Mounts Mansfield Fears Soviet War Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional concern mounted Sunday over the possibility the Soviet Union may start a war over Berlin.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) voiced fear Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might "do something on the spur of the moment" that would ignite a conflict.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) said the United States has to "run whatever risks are called for" by its pledge to keep troops in Germany to guarantee access to West Berlin.

Mansfield, assistant majority leader of the Senate, said Khrushchev would not start a war deliberately although he said it is "always possible" he might risk one.

Interviewed on a recorded Mutual radio program—"Reporters Roundup"—Mansfield said "I think he—Khrushchev—cannot be trusted not to do something on the spur of the moment" that would start a shooting war.

Javits, on a TV-radio program prepared for New York stations, said, "I don't like to risk a big war, a little war, or any kind of war, but we have to run risks if we want to have world leadership and keep the world at peace."

Javits said he did not believe "we ought to let the Russians take a big lead on long-range missiles or any other form of offense or defense."

He asserted he was not arguing the Soviets should be matched missile for missile but he said "even if it costs money" he favored matching them "in terms of a potent U.S. counteroffensive, instead of just depending on manned aircraft."

If that is disagreement with President Eisenhower's fundamental policy, the Republican senator added, "then I disagree with it."

"I don't see anything fatal about the fact that we may go over the budget that the President has sent us by two billion or three billion or even by four billion, at the very outside," Javits said.

May 27 is the date set by the Kremlin for removal of Western troops from Berlin. If Khrushchev refuses to negotiate with the Western powers, Mansfield said it might be wise to ask the United Nations to lend its good offices in seeking a solution.

Macmillan Views Talks As 'Starter'

Briton Declares Further Parleys 'Must Lie Ahead'

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan expressed belief Sunday his talks with Soviet leaders, though yielding no immediate results, "will be of great assistance in the international discussions which must lie ahead."

"I say that these discussions must lie ahead because I firmly believe that the dangerous situation with which we may be faced cannot be resolved without negotiation," Macmillan declared.

The British leader spoke at a formal dinner given by Leningrad's Mayor N. I. Smirnov. He was to return to Moscow by train Sunday night for a final talk Monday with Premier Nikita Khrushchev on cold war problems currently dominated by the Berlin issue.

(Responsible sources in London said Macmillan will return determined to urge President Eisenhower and French President Charles de Gaulle to join him in a summit conference with Khrushchev as the only way of removing the Soviet threat to West Berlin.

(In East Berlin, the official ADN news agency announced preparatory Soviet-East German talks on the ending of the U. S., British and French occupation of West Berlin opened Saturday night. The subject was discussed, it said, between Soviet Ambassador M. G. Pervukhin and East German leaders Otto Grotewohl and Walter Ulbricht. Khrushchev, who has set May 27 as the deadline for the occupation's end, is due in East Germany in midweek, officially to visit the Leipzig Trade Fair.)

Macmillan spoke in broad terms in his 10-day mission to Moscow after a day of seeing Leningrad's sights in gray, drizzling weather. While he toured the city in a Soviet Zis sedan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had a 90-minute conference intended to clarify British and Soviet positions prior to the final Macmillan-Khrushchev session.

Dinner guests with Macmillan were Lloyd, Gromyko and Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Unfunny Prank Sends At Least 15 Cars Off Road

MODENA, Italy (UPI)—Police Sunday sought the unfunny pranksters who repainted the center dividing line on the main highway here and caused at least 15 automobiles to go off the road into the bushes.

No injuries were reported since all the cars were traveling at slow speed because of fog. The accidents came after dark.

The pranksters also changed direction signs at several crossroads, sending many motorists the wrong way.

But the most dangerous prank was the misdirected center line strip, which motorists must use as a guide at night, particularly in fog.

Four Maryland Youths Killed In Auto Crash

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—Four Harford County youths out on dates were killed late Saturday night in a grinding head-on collision on Maryland 22 in the nearby town of Fulford.

Members of the Bel Air rescue team had to use crowbars to pry open the doors in order to remove the bodies of Gene W. Cullum, 20, of Bel Air; his date, Patricia T. Chadwick, 17, also of Bel Air; Raymond V. Bowser, 21, of Joppa, and his date, Joan D. Wilson, 16, of Churchville.

All four were pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. J. Ralph Horky of Churchville, who was passing by and stopped to help. Dr. Horky said it was the "most lacerated case I've ever seen."

State Trooper Durward C. Sites said Bowser and Miss Wilson were traveling east in Bowser's 1955 convertible and Cullum was driving west in a 1953 sedan with Miss Chadwick as a passenger when the accident happened two minutes before midnight.

Bowser's car crossed the center line, the trooper said, as it rounded a curve of the highway about 75 feet west of an intersection with Shucks Road. Both cars were demolished.

Greek Cypriots Give Makarios Noisy Welcome

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — More than 150,000 Greek Cypriots gave Archbishop Makarios a tremendous welcome Sunday upon his return from three years in exile.

The bearded leader in the successful fight for independence of this British-ruled eastern Mediterranean island told the cheering, shouting thousands: "We have triumphed. Today Cyprus is free. Let us celebrate, my brethren."

He paid tribute to Gen. George Grivas, the hero of the Greek Cypriot underground. There was speculation he may have been among the celebrating thousands. He and other underground leaders have been offered safe conduct to Greece, but have not yet appeared openly.

Makarios came to Nicosia from London, where agreement was worked out with British, Greek and Turkish leaders for giving the island its independence. He may be the first president of the Cyprus republic.

Church bells tolled, flags waved and flowers were thrown. From his landing in an airliner from London until the end of his 30-minute message to his people he was cheered like a conquering hero.

It was a dramatically different scene from his secret departure in a British military plane March 9, 1956, when Britain exiled him to stifle his campaign for union of Cyprus and Greece.

The crowds seemed to care little that he had not won this. Under the London agreement Cyprus is barred from union with Greece.

Wilmington, New Orleans Race Disturbances Flare

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Crowds demonstrated in two different places Saturday night against the presence of a Negro family in a previously all-white housing development near here.

The large group gathered at the home of George and Lucile Rayfield, a Negro couple, who early last week moved into Collins Park four miles south of Wilmington.

Some of the demonstrators scuffled with state troopers. One policeman was reported to have been hit by a stone. Four persons were arrested. Estimates of the crowd ranged from 150 to 300.

The other gathering was at the home of Francis A. Levering Jr., in suburban Carcroft, which is north of the city and several miles from Collins Park. Levering is a real estate dealer who sold the

Missile Defense Research Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department confirmed Sunday it is undertaking a new research program aimed at vastly more effective defenses against ballistic missiles.

The undertaking, soon to be started by the department's Advanced Research Projects Agency is known as Gilpar, for guide line identification program for antimissile research.

Aviation Week magazine, reporting the existence of Gilpar, said it was aimed at developing countermeasures "providing essentially complete defense of the United States against ballistic missiles in the approximate period between 1970 and 1980—including anti-gravity, antimatter and radiation weapons."

The magazine said, "Funds available for the program total 1½ million dollars, about 1½ percent of ARPA's ballistic missile defense budget. Contracts will be let early next month."

Probers Report Shocking Waste In U.S. Arms Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee lifted the secrecy veil from U. S. overseas arms aid slightly Sunday to report it was disturbed and shocked at waste it found.

The unanimous report by the foreign aid watchdog group headed by Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.) foreshadowed trouble for President Eisenhower's $3,900,000 aid program when it goes before Congress this month.

The subcommittee reported it discovered one U. S. ally was building airplanes for the personal use of its officers with facilities America had provided to keep up military equipment.

These other findings were reported:

A foreign motor pool got enough tires out of U. S. aid in one year to put 44 tires on each truck.

American materials intended for military construction were used to build apartment houses for foreign civilians.

Poor record-keeping by natives who knew little English produced stock record cards which read "for so many cases of 'this side up'."

One U. S.-aided installation had a 185-year supply of a single ammunition item. In another case there was only one 2½-ton truck engine carburetor in stock for an entire army.

"There can be little question as to the facts," the subcommittee said in reporting that most of its evidence came from the Defense Department's own investigations.

The congressmen held lengthy hearings behind closed doors on aid to countries such as Korea, the Indochina area and Pakistan. But the Pentagon put such a tight secrecy lock on the information, the subcommittee said, that it was barred from issuing even a censored transcript of the testimony.

The congressmen finally issued their own report which named two countries and was sparse on specifics. They said the State and Defense departments imposed secrecy to keep details from the Communists and because the cases "reflect unfavorably on officials or policies of allied nations."

Discoverer's Fate Remains Mystery

Tracking Stations Pick Up No Signals

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Scientists staged a great hunt Sunday for the space-aimed Discoverer rocket.

They checked reports from widely scattered tracking stations in an attempt to find out if it attained orbit.

Discoverer I blasted off from its pad at 1:49 p. m. Saturday. It was the first launching toward space from the West Coast.

Launching of the 78-foot rocket went off without any apparent hitch. But tracking stations have failed to pick up signals expected if the Discoverer passed over in polar orbit around the earth.

An Air Force spokesman said the rocket "reached the right point at the right speed where it should have entered orbit."

What might have been the final contact with the Discoverer was picked up Saturday by a Navy ship 900 miles south of the launching site on the rocket's prescribed route. The signals were faint.

In Washington, Rear Adm. John E. Clark, deputy director of the Advanced Research Project Agency, said this could indicate trouble with the Discoverer's broadcasting equipment.

Listening for signals were tracking stations at Vandenberg, near Point Mugu Naval Missile Test Center, Kaena Point on the Hawaiian island of Oahu, the Kodiak and Annette islands off Alaska.

Eisenhower Opens Red Cross Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower opened the annual Red Cross fund drive Sunday with an appeal to citizens to give generously to the organization for its "neighborly work — in our land and around the world."

Army Moon Rocket Try Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Launching of the Army moon rocket was postponed Sunday night.

No official reason was given for calling off the shoot but it was learned that a power failure was responsible.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A breakup in the cold front over central Florida cleared the way Sunday for the Army's effort to blast a satellite past the moon and into orbit around the sun.

"It looks good," an Army missile man commented when the heavy soup which had enveloped the cape for several days began clearing away gradually.

Lights flashed around the tall tower housing the moon rocket as the firing crew worked over it through the morning hours, making sure that it would be mechanically ready when the go-ahead came from the weather man.

The time is right for the shoot and it could come at any time.

Saturday—the first day of a six-day period in which the moon floats in closest proximity to the earth, 221,000 miles away—passed without any attempt to get the lunar probe rocket away.

The missile test center, on a 10-mile finger of sand jutting out into the Atlantic, was entirely hidden by dense, low-hanging overcast and at intervals the cape was drenched by cold heavy rain.

Since Thursday, the gloomy front has hung motionless over the cape. Scheduled shots of Jupiter, Polaris and Thor-Able rockets were delayed but eventually all three were fired up into the soupy cloud banks.

It was reported, however, that the Army was holding out for clearing weather, until the ceiling lifts to at least 2,000 feet to permit visual observation of the moon rocket in the early part of its flight. There was no indication that anything was wrong with the launching vehicle.

The period most favorable for hurling the gold-plated, 13-pound probe close to the moon will end March 6. If the rocket cannot be launched by then, presumably the attempt would be scrubbed for a month, until the moon again swings into favorable position.

While the satellite will be aimed for a solar orbit, scientists hope it will report new information on the moon as it hurtles past the lunar surface and on into outer space, to be captured by the sun and become a tiny man-made planet. The Soviet Union claims to have put a larger satellite into orbit around the sun after a launching Jan. 4.

Explosions, Fire Rip Freight Train

DANVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A Southern Railway freight train carrying chemicals from the Atomic Energy Commission was torn by fire and explosions Sunday when 23 cars derailed.

After the accident, state police evacuated the 125 residents of nearby Geneva in central Kentucky and threw up roadblocks to keep out spectators.

"They should be back in their homes tonight," state police said. "We decided upon the evacuation because we didn't know the nature of the cargo and were afraid of further explosions."

An AEC spokesman at Oak Ridge said the train carried no radioactive material but such highly inflammable chemicals as carbon disulfide. The chemicals, loaded at Chattanooga, were assigned to the National Lead Co., Cincinnati.

Six volunteer fire departments brought the blaze under control above deck on the trolley. Sheely at 5:15 p. m., stated, nearly nine hours after it started.

The railroad could offer no explanation for the accident. The impact apparently triggered the chemicals aboard.

Constitution Shears Off Oiler's Bow

Ships Stay Afloat After Crash In Fog Off N.Y.; No Injuries

NEW YORK (UPI)—The newly remodeled American luxury liner Constitution sheared the bow off a tanker in a dense Atlantic fog Sunday in a collision at a busy shipping crossroads 22 miles from the foot of Broadway. Officials immediately investigated whether the ships' radar scopes were operating.

There were no deaths or injuries in the collision of the Constitution and the Norwegian tanker Jalanta. Both steamed to a Brooklyn repair yard under their own power.

The Constitution carried only a skeleton crew of 110, instead of her full complement of 1100 passengers and a crew of 585. She was headed toward a gala New York welcome after undergoing more than three million dollars in alterations at a Virginia shipyard.

The Jalanta, which was outward bound, also had been undergoing an overhaul in New York City.

The impact of the collision ripped one side of the Constitution open like a tin can. When the ship docked at a repair yard at 7:25 p. m. e.s.t., a gaping hole in her side was visible from a great distance.

The worst damage was on the port bow. A gash 60 feet long had been ripped in the ship's side about half way between the water line and the main deck.

The tanker arrived shortly after the Constitution. The tanker's bow was cleanly shaved off at a cross-sectional bulkhead. There was a small amount of tangled metal at the edge of the impact area and a white awning dangled onto the water.

An official said about 135 feet of the bow was severed.

Both ships were equipped with radar, and the Coast Guard launched an immediate investigation of the crash. Cmdr. Meyer Stockman, officer in charge of the New York area of the Coast Guard marine security team, sent investigators to board both vessels when they docked to question captains and crews.

He said that a formal hearing would be held later.

The accident happened at about 10:40 a.m. e.s.t. about five miles off Ambrose Lightship, the famous shipping beacon at the mouth of New York Harbor.

Both the Constitution and the 539-foot-long Norwegian tanker Jalanta remained afloat after the crash, but a 120-foot section of the tanker's bow was set adrift and menaced other navigation in the area until a tugboat took it in tow.

The Constitution was unable to drop anchor because of damage to her bow. She circled the tanker, carrying a crew of 40, while a small fleet of tugboats and Coast Guard vessels nosed gently through the fog to shepherd both damaged vessels to a Brooklyn repair yard.

Missile Warning System To Be Tested

HONOLULU (UPI)—An underwater missile detection system which eventually will stretch from Hawaii to Hong Kong is scheduled to be tested this week, United Press International learned Sunday.

A reliable source said the unique electronic warning system will be in operation at Wake Island "within three or four weeks." The system is made up lengthy cables which will mark exactly when and where a test missile launched from the Pacific Coast hits the water.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Collapsing Park home to the Rayfields for a reported $13,500. At Carcroft, demonstrators set up a crude cross, three or four feet tall, and tried to set it aflame. Repeated efforts fizzled, however, and state police seized it. No arrests were made at this site.

Meantime, in New Orleans an inter-racial fight involving about 15 persons broke out after 9 o'clock Mass Sunday at the integrated Catholic church of St. Joseph the Worker in nearby Marigny.

Three Negroes were hurt, two of them were discharged from a hospital after treatment. Jefferson Parish—county—authorities picked up four Negroes and two whites for questioning.

Officers said apparently the only weapon used was a tire tool. The melee occurred in front of the church.

The Jalanta, which was outward bound, also had been undergoing an overhaul in New York City.

The impact of the collision ripped one side of the Constitution open like a tin can. When the ship docked at a repair yard at 7:25 p. m. e.s.t., a gaping hole in her side was visible from a great distance.

The worst damage was on the port bow. A gash 60 feet long had been ripped in the ship's side about half way between the water line and the main deck.

The tanker arrived shortly after the Constitution. The tanker's bow was cleanly shaved off at a cross-sectional bulkhead. There was a small amount of tangled metal at the edge of the impact area and a white seawall dangled onto the water.

An official said about 135 foot of the bow was severed.

Both ships were equipped with radar, and the Coast Guard launched an immediate investigation of the crash. Cmdr. Meyer Stockman, officer in charge of the New York area of the Coast Guard marine security team, sent investigators to board both vessels when they docked to question captains and crews.

He said that a formal hearing would be held later.

The accident happened at about 10:40 a.m. e.s.t. about five miles off Ambrose Lightship, the famous shipping beacon at the mouth of New York Harbor.

Both the Constitution and the 539-foot-long Norwegian tanker Jalanta remained afloat after the crash, but a 120-foot section of the tanker's bow was set adrift and menaced other navigation in the area until a tugboat took it in tow.

The Constitution was unable to drop anchor because of damage to her bow. She circled the tanker, carrying a crew of 40, while a small fleet of tugboats and Coast Guard vessels nosed gently through the fog to shepherd both damaged vessels to a Brooklyn repair yard.

Missile Warning System To Be Tested

HONOLULU (UPI)—An underwater missile detection system which eventually will stretch from Hawaii to Hong Kong is scheduled to be tested this week. United Press International learned Sunday.

A reliable source said the unique electronic warning system will be in operation at Wake Island "within three or four weeks." The system is made up lengthy cables which will mark exactly when and where a test missile launched from the Pacific Coast hits the water.

Unfunny Prank Sends At Least 15 Cars Off Road

MODENA, Italy (UPI)—Police Sunday sought the unfunny pranksters who repainted the center dividing line on the main highway here and caused at least 15 automobiles to go off the road in to the bushes.

No injuries were reported since all the cars were traveling at slow speed because of fog. The accidents came after dark.

The pranksters also changed direction signs at several crossroads, sending many motorists the wrong way.

But the most dangerous prank was the misdirected center line strip, which motorists must use as a guide at night, particularly in fog.

Four Maryland Youths Killed In Auto Crash

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—Four Harford County youths out on dates were killed late Saturday night in a grinding head-on collision on Maryland 22 in the nearby town of Fulford.

Members of the Bel Air rescue team had to use crowbars to pry open the doors in order to remove the bodies of Gene W. Cullum, 20, of Bel Air; his date, Patricia T. Chadwick, 17, also of Bel Air; Raymond V. Bowser, 21, of Joppa, and his date, Joan D. Wilson, 16, of Churchville.

All four were pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. J. Ralph Horky of Churchville, who was passing by and stopped to help. Dr. Horky said it was the "most lacerated case I've ever seen."

State Trooper Durward C. Sites said Bowser and Miss Wilson were traveling east in Bowser's 1955 convertible and Cullum was driving west in a 1955 sedan with Miss Chadwick as a passenger when the accident happened two minutes before midnight.

Bowser's car crossed the center line, the trooper said, as it rounded a curve — the highway about 75 feet west of an intersection with Shucks Road. Both cars were demolished.

Macmillan To Urge Summit Conference, British Sources Say

Seen Only Way To End Berlin Crisis

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will return from Moscow Tuesday determined to urge the Western Allies into a summit conference as the only way of removing the Soviet threat to Berlin, responsible British sources said Sunday.

He was reported convinced that East-West negotiation is essential—and that negotiation without Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the table would be pointless.

A further factor cited was belief that a summit conference offers the most dramatic means of impressing on Khrushchev the NATO resolve that West Berlin stays free despite Soviet threats to neutralize it and turn over control of its traffic with the West to Communist East Germany.

Macmillan underlined this resolve in his talks with Khrushchev. But the immediate response was a Khrushchev speech so uncompromising that Macmillan for a time considered calling off the rest of his 10-day tour.

Two London newspapers in close touch with official thinking, the Sunday Times and the Observer, reported that Macmillan will urge President Eisenhower and President Charles de Gaulle of France to go with him to the summit.

This, they said, was the significance of the repeated calls for negotiation in Macmillan's speeches to the Soviets and his warnings of the danger of stumbling into war through miscalculation.

Two Men Arrested In $18,000 Gem Theft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police Sunday arrested two men in connection with an $18,000 jewel theft Nov. 12 in the Georgetown section of the city.

Glenn G. Bellinger, 36, a local manufacturing jeweler, and William G. Boan, 19, were charged with receiving stolen property and then released on $1,000 bond each.

Detectives said a $3,000 jeweled pin which was part of the Nov. 12 stolen property was sold by Bellinger for $550 to Arthur J. Dettmers Jr., 43, Dettmers was charged with failure to make a pawn report and posted $100 collateral. Bellinger told police he bought the pin from Boan for $350.

At Least Dozen Senators Have Kin On Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—Relatives of at least a dozen senators are on the Senate payroll but the amount each receives is a secret. Under its rules the Senate doesn't disclose the identity or pay of any employee as does the House, where nepotism charges have created a flurry recently.

About the only public index of senators' employees is the Senate telephone book, which lists many, but not necessarily all, of those who work on office and committee staffs.

Checks made from listings in this book showed four senators whose daughters were on the February payroll. They include Sens. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.), Francis Case (R-S.D.), James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.).

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas employs his brother, Sam Houston Johnson, and his brother's wife, Mary, who worked for the senator before she was married. Sam Johnson worked as a congressional secretary before Lyndon Johnson was elected to the House in 1937.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) has a sister, Mrs. Benjamin Heiser, on his payroll as a file clerk and receptionist.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the Senate Labor-Management Committee, is the brother of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a member of the committee.

Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont.) employs his son, Charles A. Murray as his administrative assistant.

Young Murray began working in his father's office here in 1937 as a file clerk at $1,800 annual gross pay. In the next 10 years his pay was raised to $2,400 and $3,200. In 1947 he was appointed administrative assistant at $10,000 annually. A year ago, it was learned, he began receiving $16,300—the maximum pay for an administrative assistant.

Sens. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) and Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) provide employment for their sons. Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) has had his wife working for him in his office for many years.

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.) has two nephews on his payroll. They are William Don Russell, who works in Washington, and Richard B. Russell III, employed in the senator's Winder, Ga., office.

Odds Favor D'Alesandro In Baltimore Demo Race

McKeldin Choice In GOP Primary Tuesday

BALTIMORE (AP)—Thomas D'Alesandro Jr. is considered likely to win Democratic renomination for mayor but he may do it by a closer margin than previously anticipated.

Political observers feel the 55-year-old mayor will get the Democrats' nod over State's Atty. J. Harold Grady despite the fact that odds in D'Alesandro's favor have shortened during the last full week of the campaign.

On the Republican side, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, fresh out of eight years in the governor's chair, is the leading candidate for nomination to the job he held himself before becoming governor.

There has been little active campaigning on his part but a major stir was created when Democrats filed suit contending he could not run. Their contention, that McKeldin could not meet the city residence requirement because of living in Annapolis for two terms, was struck down by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

McKeldin, 58, teetotaler and an outspoken proponent of racial equality, was prohibited by the constitution from seeking his third term as governor and the job went to Democrat J. Millard Tawes in last year's general election.

D'Alesandro, seeking his fourth four-year term, has been in public office since he was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates in 1927 at the age of 23. Since then, he has been city councilman, congressman and mayor.

The mayor, an 8-5 favorite among the betting fraternity on "the Block," has backing from the city organization and most of the city's political groups. He has campaigned on his record for improving streets, getting adequate housing and providing pay raises for public servants.

Grady, 42, is a handsome former FBI agent who has been in the state's attorney's office since 1947 and has headed it for three years. Running on a "good government" ticket, he has concentrated on women's groups and civic clubs.

One of the most recent significant developments came last Wednesday when Gov. Tawes submitted his political appointments to the State Senate for approval. Most of the plums from Tawes—who has announced his support of D'Alesandro—went to Jack Pollack, recognized boss of the city's Fourth District.

Grady immediately cried that if D'Alesandro were elected, the political bosses—not the elected officials—would rule the city.

Soldier Killed, Five Injured In Crash

ROCK HALL, Md. (AP)—One soldier was killed and five others were injured on the Eastern Shore Sunday when their car went out of control, skidded 150 feet and overturned several times.

Richard Walter Fulbright, 22, stationed at the Nike base at Tolchester, Md., was pronounced dead of a skull fracture at the scene by Dr. Robert Farr, deputy medical examiner for Kent County.

The accident happened one mile south of here on Maryland 445. State Trooper R. E. Townsend said the car was traveling south, apparently at an excessive rate of speed, when the driver lost control on a right hand curve.

Hope To Consult Eye Specialist

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Bob Hope, suffering a relapse in his battle to save the sight of his left eye, will fly to New York Monday to consult a specialist.

The comedian wasn't his usual happy-go-lucky self as he described the blood clot that has rendered him almost immobile.

"I had quite a setback this week," he said gloomily. "My doctors said the eye is in worse shape than it was when the clot first formed. So they got a little panicky and suggested I see Dr. Algernon Reese at Columbia University—one of the best eye men in the world."

Hope suffered the clot formation during the Christmas holidays when he was entertaining U. S. servicemen in Europe.

Rather than call off the junket ski-nosed funnyman continued to clown for American troops stationed in Spain and Italy. Upon his return to Hollywood he was told by his doctors to take a complete rest.

Barking Dog Leads Searchers To Tot

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP)—The barking of a pet dog led searchers to 3-year-old Billy Stitz Saturday night after he had been missing for 3½ hours in a hilly, wooded section of Anne Arundel County.

About 500 persons, including 150 policemen and firemen, took part in the search after Billy wandered out of his three-acre yard in Elvaton, about 3½ miles south of here. They linked hands to form a human chain going through the dense, rugged countryside.

Little Billy and his dog, Sputnik, a 1-year-old Dalmatian, were found standing by a pond a mile from the house. The child's pants were soaked from a five-foot creek he had forded.

"What are you doing out here after dark?" asked a neighbor, Philip Gravel.

"Took a walk," said Billy. Billy was more impressed with his horseback ride home than with the fact he was lost in the woods. He is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. William Stitz.

One Of Two Kidnaped Calif. Children Found

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—A seven-year-old boy, one of two children abducted in separate southern California kidnappings, was found with a former mental patient at Bishop, Calif., Sunday, police reported.

Authorities still sought the other child, a nine-week-old baby boy taken by a babysitter here Friday night.

Wayne Patrick Murry Jr., lured from play on the beach Saturday by promise of chocolate milk, was found in company of William Harris Elwell, 28, at Bishop, 300 miles from his Venice, Calif., home. Authorities said the boy appeared to be all right.

Bishop police said they surprised Elwell in a hotel room after a bus driver reported a man and a boy answering the description of the pair had ridden his bus to that city.

Meanwhile, the FBI issued a public appeal for help in finding a woman who kidnaped little Eric Leon Flores from the side of his twin brother.

The distraught mother, Mrs. Ruth Flores, 35, also issued a public appeal to the kidnaper to return her baby or take him to a doctor because the child has been ill with a severe cold.

The woman who took the baby had volunteered to babysit for Mrs. Flores, who is widowed.

In the whole sky, there are only about nine thousand stars visible to a person with exceptionally good eyesight.

Major Crimes Increase Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Directors, 10 per cent in forcible rapes, rector J. Edgar Hoover Sunday reported an appalling increase in major crimes last year. He said a preliminary digest of police reports from all parts of the country indicates an increase of 8 per cent over 1957.

The digest involves the processing of offenses known to the police in cities of over 25,000 population. This covers about 87 per cent of the total population. Hoover said these reports reflected increases of 5 per cent in murder, 14 per cent in robberies, 2 per cent in aggravated assaults, 10 per cent in burglaries, 9 per cent in larcenies involving more than $50, and 2 per cent in auto thefts.

The FBI director said the number of juvenile arrests—the under-18 age group—continues to rise, with an indicated increase of about 6½ per cent in 1958.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — "The Diary of Anne Frank" will be edited within a matter of days, and then George Stevens will devote his fine talents to "The Greatest Story ever told." He told me that Millie Perkins, the young girl he discovered for Anne Frank will have one of the top roles.

"I'll spend a year on the script of 'The Greatest Story,' and doing research," George said, "but Millie who is under contract to 20th Century-Fox won't wait that long, of course, to make another picture. She'll make personal appearances with 'Diary,' go east for the opening of the middle of March, and then Buddy Adler will put her in another picture."

George showed me about an hour of "Anne Frank," and if the footage is any indication, this will be a really great picture. Talked with Millie who looks so much like the photographs of the real Anne Frank, although she is much prettier. I listened to Al Newman's beautiful musical score and thought, "Thank goodness for George Stevens who keeps up his enthusiasm, believes in our industry, and always does a great job."

I have had several letters from Bob Andrews from Pakistan and he gave me the news that David Lean, who won an Oscar for "Bridge on the River Kwai," and his Indian girlfriend, Leila Mather, are still very much in love.

Lean has been in India since he left Hollywood after picking up his Oscar, not entirely because of the girlfriend, but because he has impressive plans to make "Gandhi." He seeks the backing of the Indian government but it's such a discouraging venture that David has discussed with Bob switching over and directing "The Wayfarer," Andrews' story of Buddha.

You generally get an idea of which way the wind blows by rumors, and I'm told that the wind is blowing very favorably for Joe Pasternak, producer, and Charles Walter, director, of "Ask Any Girl," which turned out very well.

Joe is very happy that he has three Academy nominees in this picture — David Niven, Shirley MacLaine, and Gig Young. He tells me the theme song all through the picture is "I'm in the Mood for Love" by Jimmy McHugh, and said Joe: "You'll say you've never heard a greater arrangement, I know."

Stephen Boyd's separation from his bride of three weeks, Mariella di Sarzana, and their plans for divorce are not as simple as they sounded at first. Mrs. Boyd refused to accompany Stephen to Hollywood because she had a job with MCA in Rome. Then she followed him here, and they decided to get a divorce.

He filed first and then she changed lawyers and filed a countersuit to ask for a larger property settlement. It so happens that Boyd has to pay taxes in both England and the U.S., and he just doesn't have the kind of money she believed he had.

A radiantly happy Anna Maria Albergotti tells me her mother is sending out the invitations to her wedding to Buddy Bregman, and will give her her wedding reception at the Beverly Hills Hotel after the ceremony at St. Ambrose Church. I am so happy for both Anna Maria and her mother that this misunderstanding has been ironed out.

Also Anna Maria's little brother, Paul, will give her away, and sister Carla, maid of honor, so the whole family will be reunited as it should be on Anna's wedding day.

Your face can look as fresh as springtime, with today's skin-toning secret.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fresh As Springtime

Take a good look at your skin. Does the epidermis (outer layer) appear dry, hard, and dead-looking? Well, don't be alarmed — this is the layer of your skin that is dead cuticle! But the chances are, whether you live north or south, it's more dehydrated than at any other time of the year from being subjected to winds, steam heat or sun.

Madam Nature will take it upon herself to replace this outer cuticle with soft, pliable tissue in due course of time. But if you're anxious to look your best in a hurry, just give her a helping hand!

Your first step is to cleanse your face gently but thoroughly. Use a dry-skin cleanser if your skin is inherently dry, and an oily-skin cleanser if it is oily at other times of the year. If you use an oily skin cleanser, go a step further and follow it with a good wash of mild soap and water. In any case, rinse and rinse—then you'll be ready for the steam bath which is today's big news — the best skin-toning routine ever!

Stir a teaspoon of witch hazel into a bowl of steaming hot water. Then hold your face about a foot over the bowl so it can catch the steam until it ceases. This process expedites the shedding of the dead outer skin and has a softening and healing effect on the new skin. Now, stir a tablespoon of oatmeal or almond meal into a basin of warm water and splash this conditioning rinse on your face for several minutes. Let it dry by itself or pat it dry with a soft cloth.

New X-Ray

LONDON (UPI) — British scientists and doctors have developed a "sound X-ray" which uses harmless sound waves instead of potentially dangerous radioactivity to look inside the human body. It was reported Sunday. The Sunday Graphic said the "ultra-sound image camera" uses very high frequency sound waves which reflect back to a special type of camera which converts the sound waves into a television-like X-ray picture.

Protest Rally Held

TOKYO (UPI) — More than 18,000 representatives of labor unions held a rally in Tokyo calling for a restoration of Japan-Red China relations and the crushing of the Japan-U.S. security treaty. The rally was jointly sponsored by the General Council of Japan Trade Unions, the National League for the protection of the Constitution and the Japan Council Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs.

King Heads Home

TANARIVE, Madagascar (UPI) — King Mohammed V of Morocco left by plane Sunday to return home from a week-long pilgrimage to this island where the French held him in exile in 1953-54. The King and his 42-man party will arrive in Dakar Monday morning.

Huge Tax Bill Up For Action In W. Va. House

Income Tax Would Aid School System

By BILL BARRETT
(United Press International)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $15,500,000 individual and corporate income tax measure designed to channel money into the state's public school system, West Virginia University's Medical School and other state services is up for passage in the House of Delegates Monday.

Also at voting stage in the House is a bill doubling the cost of learner's permits for motor vehicle drivers which will finance three-fourths of a $50 a month across-the-board salary raise for State Police.

The measures are among 10 up for a final vote in the House. The Senate has 11 at passage stage, including three held over from last Friday.

Among the measures to be acted upon by the Senate is one to set up business development councils in various areas of the state and a measure to allow state colleges and West Virginia University to use athletic receipts in financing athletic training camps and dietary feeding.

Delegates amended the income tax measure Friday to make the rate the same for both individuals and corporations. In its original form there would have been levied against federal income taxes paid the previous year a five per cent against individuals and four per cent against corporations.

Cut Estimated Income

Del. William Parker (D-Marion) won approval 52-45 reducing the individual rate to that of corporations. It had the effect of cutting the estimated income of the measure from $18,000,000 to $16,500,000.

As it now stands the bill would finance a $12,000,000 state aid to schools measure that is at the amendment stage in the House. This bill—sponsored jointly by the State Department of Education and the West Virginia Education Assn.—as amended would channel $6,000,000 into the regular state aid to school distribution program.

A like amount would be set aside for counties on a matching basis and distributed among those who best help themselves by raising additional local money.

Another provision would allocate $4,000,000 annually to the West Virginia University Medical School. If passed, there likely would be support for a measure at first reading in the House which would repeal the one cent soft drink tax now used to finance the school.

Hiked From $2 To $4

The bill increasing the learner's permit fee from $2 to $4 would provide an estimated $127,000. This along with two previously approved measures setting up $10 fees for persons who refuse to surrender voluntarily suspended operators licenses or registration plates would produce the $167,000 necessary for the State Police salary raise.

A bill setting up the new salary scale by law is at second reading in the House.

Also at the amendment stage in the House is a Senate-approved $2,400,000 road tax measure. It would increase the cost of motor vehicle registration plates.

It appears, however, the House will substitute its own version of the changes for the Senate measure and the matter likely will go to a conference committee before finally enacted. The House bill, recommended by the Finance Committee, contains a new section which would reduce the cost of license plates for farm trucks.

Kessel Favors Absentee Ballot For Students

CHARLESTON (Special) — "This action was long overdue," Del. Joe Kessel (R-Mineral) had that comment concerning a move to permit college students to vote by absentee ballot.

A bill to that effect has been passed by the House.

It was amended in the State Senate to accord the same privilege to a student's spouse.

"I have always felt that we are depriving hundreds of students of their right to vote by requiring them to travel to their home counties on election day," the Keyser High School teacher asserted.

He pointed out that many students, going to school hundreds of miles from their homes, would have had to miss two days of classes to cast their ballots.

"We try to impress upon our young adults the extreme importance of exercising their voting rights," Del. Kessel commented.

"On the other hand, we are spending a lot of time and effort to convince these same young people of the paramount need for our country to keep pace with Russia in the field of education," he continued.

He asserted that a 21-year-old student, going to college two or three hundred miles from home, must have a "tremendous battle with his conscience at election time trying to figure out what he should do."

He added, "I feel that our new voters should get the ballot-casting habit early. This legislation should do the trick."

Former Bloomington Man Is Killed

PURSGLOVE, W. Va. — John William Guy Jr., a native of Bloomington, Md., and another miner were killed instantly on February 17 when they were buried under tons of debris in a roof fall at the Pursglove No. 15 mine of the Christopher Coal Company.

Mr. Guy was employed as a foreman at the mine and was working with George Hrivnak, 32, of Mt. Morris, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Guy was born in Bloomington, April 17, 1917 a son of the late John W. and Kathryn (Neat) Guy.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Guy; a son and daughter, at home; two brothers, Raymond W. Guy, Hyattsville, and Charles A. Guy, Niagara Falls, and three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Morgantown, and Mrs. Frances Twigg and Mrs. Geraldine Taborn, both of Hyattsville.

Guy, Hrivnak and three other men, who escaped, were clearing away debris from a previous roof fall when the cave-in occurred about 275 feet below the surface.

A section of the roof and wall some 12 feet across fell on Mr. Guy and Mr. Hrivnak, and miners worked two and one-half hours getting their bodies out.

Mr. Guy had been a foreman for the company approximately 15 years.

Services were conducted at the Jenkins Funeral Home in Morgantown.

Huge Tax Bill Up For Action In W. Va. House

Income Tax Would Aid School System

By BILL BARRETT (United Press International)

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $15,500,000 individual and corporate income tax measure designed to channel money into the state's public school system, West Virginia University's Medical School and other state services is up for passage in the House of Delegates Monday.

Also at voting stage in the House is a bill doubling the cost of learner's permits for motor vehicle drivers which will finance three-fourths of a $50 a month across-the-board salary raise for State Police.

The measures are among 10 up for a final vote in the House. The Senate has 11 at passage stage, including three held over from last Friday.

Among the measures to be acted upon by the Senate is one to set up business development councils in various areas of the state and a measure to allow state colleges and West Virginia University to use athletic receipts in financing athletic training camps and dietary feeding.

Delegates amended the income tax measure Friday to make the rate the same for both individuals and corporations. In its original form there would have been levied against federal income taxes paid the previous year a five per cent rate against individuals and four per cent against corporations.

Cut Estimated Income

Del. William Parker (D-Marion) won approval 52-45 reducing the individual rate to that of corporations. It had the effect of cutting the estimated income of the measure from $18,000,000 to $16,500,000.

As it now stands the bill would finance a $12,000,000 state aid to schools measure that is at the amendment stage in the House. This bill—sponsored jointly by the State Department of Education and the West Virginia Education Assn.—as amended would channel $6,000,000 into the regular state aid to school distribution program.

A like amount would be set aside for counties on a matching basis and distributed among those who best help themselves by raising additional local money.

Another provision would allocate $4,000,000 annually to the West Virginia University Medical School. If passed, there likely would be support for a measure at first reading in the House which would repeal the one cent soft drink tax now used to finance the school.

Hiked From $2 To $4

The bill increasing the learner's permit fee from $2 to $4 would provide an estimated $127,000. This along with two previously approved measures setting up $10 fees for persons who refuse to surrender voluntarily suspended operators licenses or registration plates would produce the $167,000 necessary for the State Police salary raise.

A bill setting up the new salary scale by law is at second reading in the House.

Also at the amendment stage in the House is a Senate-approved $2,400,000 road tax measure. It would increase the cost of motor vehicle registration plates.

It appears, however, the House will substitute its own version of the changes for the Senate measure and the matter likely will go to a conference committee before finally enacted. The House bill, recommended by the Finance and Committee, contains a new section which would reduce the cost of license plates for farm trucks.

Typists will be Miss Anne Kelley, Mrs. Marian Daniels, Mrs. Mary Lou Barcase and Miss Frances Ott.

Robert Gilchrist, chairman of Piedmont Chapter, American Red Cross, will arrange for workers to assist in unloading and setting up the equipment. Explorer Boy Scouts will dismantle and pack the equipment.

Mrs. Bernadine Appel is chairman of recruiting donors. Persons who give blood are requested to phone Mrs. Appel, EL 5-2664, or Mrs. Bell, EL 5-5461.

Evangelistic Service Opens At Mill Run

WESTERNPORT—A two-week evangelistic service has begun at the Mill Run Methodist Church, RFD 1, Westernport. It will be conducted nightly by the Rev. C. J. Ickes, March 15.

Rev. Ickes is the founder pastor of Laurel Hill Tabernacle, Jennerstown, Pa. The pastor of the church, Dwight I. Evans, will be the chorister and will also help to provide vocal and instrumental music.

Rev. Ickes is a graduate of Boswell (Pa.) High School and Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C. He frequently conducts evangelistic meetings in various churches as well as speaking at many youth rallies.

Current arrangements are being made for a variety of special music to be presented nightly.

Society Marks Anniversary

FROSTBURG—The 35th anniversary of Sunergoi Society of the First United Presbyterian Church was held a recent evening in the Sunday School rooms.

A dinner which preceded the program was in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. Margaret Kim.

The evening's program was opened with prayer by Mrs. Oren Lemmert. Miss Agnes Howat presented a talk on famous February birthdays.

A sextet from Beall High School under the direction of Miss Mary Robb presented two numbers, "Tell It to Jesus" and "Jericho Road." Members of the group are Larry Fresh, George Richardson, Kar Van Newkirk, Chester Carter, Donovan Bush and Victor Twigg.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Miss Ruth B. Engle. Honored guests were the club members, Mrs. Annie Sigler, Mrs. Janet Park, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. William Hanson and Mrs. Nellie Bean.

Former Bloomington Man Is Killed

PURSGLOVE, W. Va. — John William Guy Jr., a native of Bloomington, Md., and another miner were killed instantly on February 17 when they were buried under tons of debris in a roof fall at the Pursglove No. 15 mine of the Christopher Coal Company.

Mr. Guy was employed as a foreman at the mine and was working with George Hrivnak, 32, of Mt. Morris, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Guy was born in Bloomington, April 17, 1917 a son of the late John W. and Kathryn (Neat) Guy.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Guy; a son and daughter, at home; two brothers, Raymond W. Guy, Hyattsville, and Charles A. Guy, Hyattsville, Falls, and three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Morgantown, and Mrs. Frances Twigg and Mrs. Geraldine Taborn, both of Hyattsville.

Guy, Hrivnak and three other men, who escaped, were clearing away debris from a previous roof fall when the cave-in occurred about 275 feet below the surface.

A section of the roof and wall some 12 feet across fell on Mr. Guy and Mr. Hrivnak, and miners worked two and one-half hours getting their bodies out.

Mr. Guy had been a foreman for the company approximately 15 years.

Services were conducted at the Jenkins Funeral Home in Morgantown.

Cheer In A Gloomy, Dangerous World

Jan Christian Smuts once remarked during an interview given a young reporter, "Make no mistake, this is a dangerous world." Then he settled back and talked from the wisdom of his great age and maturity in the most cheerful and agreeable manner and seemed singularly undisturbed about life and its perils.

There are so many prophets of gloom these days that perhaps it is sometimes best to look at the worst side of things in the first place and adjust oneself to being cheerful at that level. Then if things turn out better than expected you can be cheerful indeed, in fact wildly happy.

For instance, the pack-a-day smoker who has nothing wrong with his lungs can say, "Well, there should be and there isn't, so how about it?" The fat man who is continually reading how his days on earth will be shortened unless he goes on a diet should frankly write himself off, considering himself statistically defunct.

Then he can go ahead, eat what he likes, and enjoy himself because he is living on specially purchased time which belongs to him alone. He need no longer be dogged by miserable thoughts of living on bird seed and lettuce.

The person who worries about radiation damage from atom bomb tests to the family genes should accept without hesitation the more depressing doctrine that his great grandchildren will look like apes in the comforting knowledge that he has cousins which look like them already.

As for falling on one's noggin in the bathtub, being flattened by a truck, or drowned at sea, who ever dreamed that man's frail body was immortal anyway?

A nice, cozy recognition of all the nasty things which can happen leaves one with no perils which have not been given their due of worry and apprehension. After that your time is all your own to amuse yourself.

These Days

Rockefeller's Error

Politics is the art of controlling men's minds and wills so that their political support will be available when needed. Nelson Rockefeller, Governor of New York State, has been trained to public life. Although he has had some considerable experience in administration and has engaged in public activities during his adult life, he has never learned first-hand, by trial and error, the techniques of American politics.

Elected Governor of the State of New York as a Republican against a national Democratic trend, he was immediately hailed as a prospective candidate for the Presidency. In fact, so certain were his managers of his prospects that they set in motion a covert nationwide activity on his behalf.

Rockefeller has the personality and trappings suitable for current political popularity. He is youthful in appearance; reads a speech ably; is active and energetic and has unbounded ambition. His family name is now synonymous with charity and good works.

Just as in a former generation, the man who emerged from the log cabin to eminence was regarded favorably by the American people, today the millionaire who eats a hot dog with a garment worker amasses popular appeal. This sort of thing is called democratic and the crowd enjoys democracy, both true and fraudulent.

During his first two months as Governor of New York State, Nelson Rockefeller displayed political ineptitude. The political theory in support of his sudden tax rise could only be that if he instituted higher taxes now, the public would become accustomed to them by 1960. In fact, if economics could be effected by then, it would be possible to send taxpayers refunds by then. Along with the refunds would go a letter signed by the Governor. It would make excellent popularity bait and would give to Rockefeller such popularity as Governor Ribicoff of Connecticut now enjoys.

Whatever the plan, it got fouled up, first, because too many persons on all economic levels are finding taxes unbearable in this year 1959; secondly, because New Yorkers have been expecting a business approach to the state's problems by one who bears the name, Rockefeller; thirdly, because while Rockefeller has managed to gain control of the Republican organization in New York State, Republicans know that the state is now essentially Democratic, and they fear the political consequences of the Rockefeller program.

One of the principal complications is the financial situation of the city of New York. Nearly half the population of the state lives in the Metropolitan area which includes the city and the suburbs. The city of New York is broke. The morale of the police force is frighteningly low despite the fact that the city has the most competent commissioner it has known in decades. Some school teachers have been on strike recently and all are complaining. The streets are filthy. The city does not have fiscal autonomy but is dependent upon the Governor for a share of the taxes collected in the city by the state.

Here enters the sorry spectre of party politics. The Mayor proposes a tax on off-track betting, which is a popular proposal, or a four per cent sales tax which is hateful. Obviously, the Mayor has no desire to impose the four per cent sales tax because he continues to have political ambitions. On the other hand, the Governor is not too strong for off-track betting because that may raise certain moral issues among Protestants.

Further, the city administration is Democratic; the Governor is a Republican. The strength of the Republican Party, such as it is, is in the northern and western counties of the state; the city of New York grows increasingly Democratic.

The citizen who cares less about all this than he does about a television murder, wants fewer taxes, less waste in government, less duplication and more police protection. He voted for Rockefeller in preference to Averell Harriman because he believed that Rockefeller would produce a capable, businesslike administration, that he would clean house. Any person who runs a business himself or who has had experience with efficient organization is appalled at the waste of personnel and of time in public offices, Federal, state and municipal.

It was assumed that such a person as Nelson Rockefeller would go into the Governor's office in Albany with a vacuum cleaner and an exterminator. Instead, he just proposed another tax load.

Supreme Court Decision Raises A New Question

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court of the United States has just handed down a decision which could point the way to the removal of the tax exemption now granted labor unions. So also do many charitable foundations appear to be in danger of losing that same exemption.

For the first time in 40 years, the Supreme Court dealt specifically with those Treasury regulations which deny corporations or individuals the right to deduct from their gross income for tax purposes any expenses in promoting the passage or defeat of legislation, federal, state, or city. The ruling is an affirmation of the laws of Congress which say that lobbying, the distribution of propaganda and other such activities by individuals or organizations are constitutionally protected, but that they must be given no tax favors.

The Supreme Court declares: "Nondiscriminatory denial of deduction from gross income to sums expended to promote or defeat legislation is plainly not 'aimed at the suppression of dangerous ideas.' Rather, it appears to us to express a determination by Congress that since purchased publicity can influence the fate of legislation which will affect, directly or indirectly, all in the community, everyone in the community should stand on the same footing as regards its purchase so far as the Treasury of the United States is concerned."

But what is a "nondiscriminatory denial of deduction"? This means that every individual and every organization of individuals must be treated alike. The Court, in support of its argument, pointed to the way private organizations are given tax exemptions provided they do not engage in propaganda activity. While it did not mention labor unions which today indirectly finance political activities and so-called "educational" propaganda, the following paragraphs in the latest decision are significant:

"The statutory policy is further evidenced by the treatment given by Congress to the tax status of organizations, otherwise qualified for exemption as organized exclusively for 'religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes,' which engage in activities designed to promote or defeat legislation.

"As early as 1934 Congress amended the (Internal Revenue) Code expressly to provide that no tax exemption should be given to organizations, otherwise qualifying, a substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, and that deductibility should be denied contributions by individuals to such organizations. And a year thereafter, when the Code was for the first time amended to permit corporations to deduct certain contributions not qualifying as 'ordinary and necessary' business expenses, an identical limitation was imposed."

The current case dealt with the expenses incurred by certain dealers in "wholesale beverages" who contributed to organizations in the states of Washington and Arkansas attempting to fight proposed legislation which the dealers claimed would put them out of business. Plainly, under the usual definition which permits deductions for "ordinary and necessary business expenses," these items were entitled to a deduction, but the Treasury, in denying the deduction, has been guided by the act of Congress relating to propaganda or activities seeking the passage or defeat of legislation.

The case may have a bearing on the efforts of electric light and power companies to carry on publicity seeking to prevent government ownership of their businesses. Some Senators who favor the TVA-type of government ownership have been battling with the electric light companies, arguing that the latter can pay for all the publicity they wish but must not deduct from their gross income for tax purposes any expenses incurred in such campaigns.

But if individuals and corporations cannot get deductions for expenses they deem so necessary to their own survival, can the Treasury any longer permit labor unions to engage in political activities and get a total tax exemption? The Supreme Court seems to imply that there can be no discrimination and that "everyone in the community should stand on the same footing" in purchasing propaganda.

Many millions of dollars were spent by labor-union members through specially created organizations last autumn in the fight against "right to work" laws in several states. Was this activity of a nature that would require labor unions to pay taxes on their total income and to lose their tax exemption? Corporations are forbidden by law to contribute to such "educational" campaigns, so evidently they have not been standing "on the same footing."

Also, some charitable foundations have lately been spending vast sums for television programs described as "educational" but which present views on controversial questions involving legislative policy. The foundations have a right to do this, but do they have a right to retain their tax exemptions if individuals who try to do the same thing are penalized? That's the issue raised anew by the Supreme Court's latest decision.

Some Popular Fallacies About Medical Care

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons believe that cures for cancer and hardening of the arteries will eliminate the inevitability of death. This fallacy stems from statistics showing these diseases head the list of killers. What we fail to consider is that when the top men on the totem pole are bumped off, others take their place.

At the turn of the century, infections such as pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria, diarrhea in infants, and typhoid were the most common causes of death, but they have been displaced. Heart disease due to hardening of the arteries moved into first place, cancer became No. 2, and accidents No. 3.

If these conditions could be brought under control we would live longer but in time other structures of the body would wear out. It is doubtful whether medicine ever will be able to eliminate the chronic diseases of old age.

Another common fallacy is that money is the answer to medical research. Americans visualize a machine into which millions are poured into one end and cures come out the other. Money is needed to conduct research but don't be discouraged when cures fail to materialize. Research is like that. The answer that looks so close may be centuries away. Hindsight has shown that it is easy for an entire generation of scientists to follow the wrong path based on erroneous assumptions and observations.

Many Americans also have a false sense of values when it comes to medical care. They do not mind paying $3 for a box of candy but complain when a prescription costs the same.

Spending $25 to $30 a day at a hotel or swank resort never is questioned but a hospital room costing the same is considered highway robbery. Many men spend $20 to $30 in a night club in one evening yet the same amount for service by a physician is resented even though his decision may determine whether they live or die.

Rh PROBLEM

Mrs. Z. writes: An Rh woman builds antibodies when pregnant. Is there anything new on the market to prevent this from happening?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The solution to incompatibility in the Rh factor lies in its early recognition and treatment, should complications occur. The antibodies develop when an Rh negative mother has an Rh positive child. These antibodies pass through the placenta into the blood of the child and may cause a blood condition called erythroblastosis fetalis.

DON'T CHANCE IT

A. N. writes: Does the consumption of alcohol while under treatment for syphilis hinder or prolong cure?

REPLY

Alcohol does not have an adverse effect upon the drugs used in treating syphilis. But this disease is too serious to take a chance. Why not concentrate on getting well and leave liquor alone?

E. DOMETRIOSIS

Mrs. W. writes: Can endometriosis exist without symptoms?

REPLY

Yes, depending upon the number of implants, their location, and how long they have been present. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this subject.

MEAT AND RHEUMATISM

D. J. writes: I have rheumatism in my legs. Do you think I ought to stop eating meat?

REPLY

Not unless tests show you have gouty rheumatism. This condition calls for the curtailment of meat and other foods high in purines.

HAIR CHANGES

R. T. writes: My 8 year old daughter had fine blonde hair until she was 6. It then turned coarse, kinky, and black. Would you have any idea what caused this change?

REPLY

Children's hair tends to darken and get thicker after age 6. Years ago, two New York dermatologists reported a case of kinking in a 21 year old man with a vigorous head of light brown, straight hair. It became black and kinky. Not all the scalp was involved and the cause never was determined.

TOMORROW: Cast away your problems at nightfall.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Many Big Airports Lack Modern Radar Gear To Avert Collisions

By Drew Pearson

the 7 to 10 day life of the old G.E. product.

Early in January the FAA installed a completely new ARSR-1 radar setup in Washington, produced by the Raytheon Company. The new receiver, antenna and transmitter equipment is excellent. Only trouble is it has a vertical viewing screen so that the little plexiglas markers which show where planes are located, slide off. Control towers could keep these markers on horizontal screens, but not on vertical ones. So the ARSR-1 radar viewing screen, which costs the taxpayers $15,000 each remains largely idle.

FAA controllers in Washington have had to fall back on the obsolete VG-1, which though admittedly inadequate, has a horizontal viewing screen on which the plexiglas markers can be moved about to chart the location of flying aircraft.

Distressed FAA chiefs now are tinkering with the idea of installing, perhaps in June, a French-made, 20-inch "s an conversion" radar screen as a replacement for the ARSR-1 and VG-1 screens.

The disturbing situation is by no means confined to the Washington area. FAA safety controllers have the same problems and the same inferior equipment to work with all over the country.

Too Many Military Planes

One reason for the outmoded radar is that with the heavy emphasis on military aviation, the unique radar needs of civilian flying have not kept pace with the enormous increase of air traffic flying at all altitudes, in all directions, in our congested airways.

"Even with the best radar equipment, which we do not have," said one air safety engineer, "it is unlikely that we could guarantee maximum air safety. There is, of course, a human factor in safety. But the main problem today is that there are too many planes in the air for us to keep instantly under control. The air space just isn't big enough."

"Add to this the increasing numbers of military jets in the air—which are difficult to track on a radarscope, particularly the fighter-type jets—plus the peak-hour flying volume by the commercial airlines, geared to passenger convenience rather than traffic conditions, and you get some idea of the headaches of an air safety engineer."

The predicament was pointed up by a recent "near miss" that was kept out of the newspapers. It is reported here for the first time.

Because of the limited capacity of civilian air radar equipment, FAA controllers were offered the facilities of the Air Force to "track" flights of a jet 707, National Airlines transport between New York and Miami. An FAA controller, operating from an Air Force ground control interruption station, observed three military jets headed toward the 707 near Salisbury, Md.

The controller ordered the 707 pilot to take a left dog-leg off his course to avoid a collision.

The 707 did so, but to the dismay of the pilot and the air traffic controller, the three military planes also turned left, still on the wing of the airliner. The 707 pilot was then ordered to "turn right." Again, the Air Force jets followed suit, still hanging dangerously close to the civilian plane. Finally the jets flew off in the direction of Andrews field near Washington.

After the relieved controller turned over the radar watch on the 707 to a colleague in Jacksonville, Fla., he received a phone call from an Air Force colonel.

"You didn't have to worry about our jets colliding with that 707," said the colonel. "Our jets were just practicing an interception."

The FAA controller's reply could not be printed.

The hills looked like vanilla cup cakes in the late snow. The cars cut black scars around them and, where the road dropped steeply to the river, the bridge looked like a child's Erector set. On the far side were the town, a few church spires and some old-fashioned houses and two or three traffic lights, which were brighter in the gloom of a snowy day.

Bob ordered one more fast one. He was careful about his drinking because Ymelda worried. It wasn't that he was alcoholic. She claimed that it affected his judgment. Not much. A little. Liquor made him happier and more ebullient and less cautious.

This made Bob smile. Women, he felt, never really understand their men. They are always afraid of something that never happens. Nervous Mel, he called her. He snapped the shot glass up, tilted his head, and nodded farewell to the bartender.

The car outside was his. It was old, but it was all his. He patted it and pulled his gloves on and s. behind the wheel and ran the engine a little. A sweet-sounding baby, that engine. It had a quiet roar of authority. Bob chewed on a mint as he swung the car around, watching in both directions for traffic, and on across the bridge and up into the hills.

He thought of his happiness. He had so much of it. Not much money, but a fortune in contentment. He had come home from the war safely and Ymelda had been waiting for him as though she had not stirred since he kissed her goodbye.

Bob had a job. It paid $118.50 with time and a half. He cannibalized old cars in a junkyard and he had a boss who trusted him all the way. Bob and Mel had bought a four-and-a-half room house — he called it a bungalow — for $7,250 and little Mickey had been born in it suddenly and unexpectedly eight months ago.

Now there was another baby coming. A girl, he hoped. A real girl with a yellow pony tail and a saucy mouth and laugh-squinted eyes and big wet kisses for daddy. Bob drove through the hills swelling with pride. He was richer than Rockefeller and he knew it.

He looked at his watch. Mel should be almost through at the doctor's office. He started back, around the bases of the hills.

He was happy. Extraordinarily happy. He moved the car up a notch or two and spun it a little on the snowy turns. There was no traffic up here. Nothing to worry about. He had promised Mel that he would not take a drink. Bob removed the glove on his right hand, dug in his pocket, and popped two more mints into his mouth.

What a woman doesn't know cannot hurt her. He came to the brow of the hill leading down to town and he knew, the instant he passed the edge of it, that he was going too fast. It is a knowledge that a good driver feels, without looking at a speedometer.

Bob knew, the moment he tapped the brakes lightly, that he would never make the bottom turn onto the steel bridge. A man full of liquor would be unintelligent in a situation like this. He would panic. But not Bob. He had 30 seconds left in which to think. So he figured all the angles.

He was glad that Mel wasn't with him. She'd scream. She'd complicate everything. The best thing to do, he knew, was not to try to turn the wheel. The car was going faster and faster, down the icy road. He would stay in his lane — luckily, there was nothing ahead — and, when he reached the river, he would permit the car to go through the wooden hand-rail. Before it left the road, he would open the door on his left and jam his foot in it so that it would not close.

The moment it hit the water, he would push the door open all the way, and strike out. How far would it be to the muddy bank? Thirty feet? Forty? Bob thanked God that he was a man who used his head.

The old car went down down, faster and faster. People coming up saw it and knew what was going to happen. They held their breaths. Bob opened the door, jammed his foot in it, and swung the wheel slightly so that the vehicle, instead of crashing into the steel girders, splintered the wooden hand-rail and arched gracefully over the river and splashed in.

He struck out and headed for shore, shivering in the icy current. He could hear the cheers as he staggered up the bank. Then he remembered that he had left little Mickey in a basket on the rear seat.

Cheer In A Gloomy, Dangerous World

Jan Christian Smuts once remarked during an interview given a young reporter, "Make no mistake, this is a dangerous world." Then he settled back and talked from the wisdom of his great age and maturity in the most cheerful and agreeable manner and seemed singularly undisturbed about life and its perils.

There are so many prophets of gloom these days that perhaps it is sometimes best to look at the worst side of things in the first place and adjust oneself to being cheerful at that level. Then if things turn out better than expected you can be cheerful indeed, in fact wildly happy.

For instance, the pack-a-day smoker who has nothing wrong with his lungs can say, "Well, there should be and there isn't, so how about it?" The fat man who is continually reading how his days on earth will be shortened unless he goes on a diet should frankly write himself off, considering himself statistically defunct.

Then he can go ahead, eat what he likes, and enjoy himself because he is living on specially purchased time which belongs to him alone. He need no longer be dogged by miserable thoughts of living on bird seed and lettuce.

The person who worries about radiation damage from atom bomb tests to the family genes should accept without hesitation the more depressing doctrine that his great grandchildren will look like apes in the comforting knowledge that he has cousins which look like them already.

As for falling on one's noggin in the bathtub, being flattened by a truck, or drowned at sea, who ever dreamed that man's frail body was immortal anyway?

A nice, cozy recognition of all the nasty things which can happen leaves one with no perils which have not been given their due of worry and apprehension. After that your time is all your own to amuse yourself.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Rockefeller's Error

Politics is the art of controlling men's minds and wills so that their political support will be available when needed. Nelson Rockefeller, Governor of New York State, has been trained to public life. Although he has had some considerable experience in administration and has engaged in public activities during his adult life, he has never learned first-hand, by trial and error, the techniques of American politics.

Elected Governor of the State of New York as a Republican against a national Democratic trend, he was immediately hailed as a prospective candidate for the Presidency. In fact, so certain were his managers of his prospects that they set in motion a covert nationwide activity on his behalf.

Rockefeller has the personality and trappings suitable for current political popularity. He is youthful in appearance; reads a speech ably; is active and energetic and has unbounded ambition. His family name is now synonymous with charity and good works.

Just as in a former generation, the man who emerged from the log cabin to eminence was regarded favorably by the American people, today the millionaire who eats a hot dog with a garment worker amasses popular appeal. This sort of thing is called democratic and the crowd enjoys democracy, both true and fraudulent.

During his first two months as Governor of New York State, Nelson Rockefeller displayed political ineptitude. The political theory in support of his sudden tax rise could only be that if he instituted higher taxes now, the public would become accustomed to them by 1960. In fact, if economics could be effected by then, it would be possible to send taxpayers refunds by then. Along with the refunds would go a letter signed by the Governor. It would make excellent popularity bait and would give to Rockefeller such popularity as Governor Ribicoff of Connecticut now enjoys.

Whatever the plan, it got fouled up, first, because too many persons on all economic levels are finding taxes unbearable in this year 1959; secondly, because New Yorkers have been expecting a business approach to the state's problems by one who bears the name, Rockefeller; thirdly, because while Rockefeller has managed to gain control of the Republican organization in New York State, Republicans know that the state is now essentially Democratic and they fear the political consequences of the Rockefeller program.

One of the principal complications is the financial situation of the city of New York. Nearly half the population of the state lives in the Metropolitan area which includes the city and the suburbs. The city of New York is broke. The morale of the police force is frighteningly low despite the fact that the city has the most competent commissioner it has known in decades. Some school teachers have been on strike recently and all are complaining. The streets are filthy. The city does not have fiscal autonomy but is dependent upon the Governor for a share of the taxes collected in the city by the state.

Here enters the sorry spectre of party politics. The Mayor proposes a tax on off-track betting, which is a popular proposal, or a four per cent sales tax which is hateful. Obviously, the Mayor has no desire to impose the four per cent sales tax because he continues to have political ambitions. On the other hand, the Governor is not too strong for off-track betting because that may raise certain moral issues among Protestants.

Further, the city administration is Democratic; the Governor is a Republican. The strength of the Republican Party, such as it is, is in the northern and western counties of the state; the city of New York grows increasingly Democratic.

The citizen who cares less about all this than he does about a television murder, wants fewer taxes, less waste in government, less duplication and more police protection. He voted for Rockefeller in preference to Averell Harriman because he believed that Rockefeller would produce a capable, businesslike administration, that he would clean house. Any person who runs a business himself or who has had experience with efficient organization is appalled at the waste of personnel and of time in public offices, Federal, state and municipal.

It was assumed that such a person as Nelson Rockefeller would go into the Governor's office in Albany with a vacuum cleaner and an exterminator. Instead, he just proposed another tax load.

What Now, Dr. Frankenstein?

Supreme Court Decision Raises A New Question

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court of the United States has just handed down a decision which could point the way to the removal of the tax exemption now granted labor unions. So also do many charitable foundations appear to be in danger of losing that same exemption.

For the first time in 40 years, the Supreme Court dealt specifically with those Treasury regulations which deny corporations or individuals the right to deduct from their gross income for tax purposes any expenses in promoting the passage or defeat of legislation, federal, state, or city. The ruling is an affirmation of the laws of Congress which say that lobbying, the distribution of propaganda and other such activities by individuals or organizations are constitutionally protected, but that they must be given no tax favors.

The Supreme Court declares: "Nondiscriminatory denial of deduction from gross income to sums expended to promote or defeat legislation is plainly not aimed at the suppression of dangerous ideas." Rather, it appears to us to express a determination by Congress that since purchased publicity can influence the fate of legislation which will affect, directly or indirectly, all in the community, everyone in the community should stand on the same footing as regards its purchase so far as the Treasury of the United States is concerned."

But what is a "nondiscriminatory denial of deduction"? This means that every individual and every organization of individuals must be treated alike. The Court, in support of its argument, pointed to the way private organizations are given tax exemptions provided they do not engage in propaganda activity. While it did not mention labor unions which today indirectly finance political activities and so-called "educational" propaganda, the following paragraphs in the latest decision are significant:

"The statutory policy is further evidenced by the treatment given by Congress to the tax status of organizations, otherwise qualified for exemption as organized exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, which engage in activities designed to promote or defeat legislation.

"As early as 1934 Congress amended the (Internal Revenue) Code expressly to provide that no tax exemption should be given to organizations, otherwise qualifying, a substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, and that deductibility should be denied contributions by individuals to such organizations. And a year thereafter, when the Code was for the first time amended to permit corporations to deduct certain contributions not qualifying as 'ordinary and necessary' business expenses, an identical limitation was imposed."

The current case dealt with the expenses incurred by certain dealers in alcoholic beverages who contributed to organizations in the states of Washington and Arkansas attempting to fight proposed legislation which the dealers claimed would put them out of business. Plainly, under the usual definition which permits deductions for "ordinary and necessary business expenses," these items were entitled to a deduction, but the Treasury, in denying the deduction, has been guided by the act of Congress relating to propaganda or activities seeking the passage or defeat of legislation.

The case may have a bearing on the efforts of electric light

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON—The government program to stimulate school construction by paying half of the bond principal and interest of needy districts most probably never will get off the ground.

Opposition from majority Democrats in Congress, as well as opponents to any federal aid program, is sufficient to kill it before it ever reaches the Senate and House floors for debate.

Opponents have an ace up their sleeves which can be used to kill any federal school aid. They used it successfully two years ago.

The opposition will support an amendment to the bill which provides that no federal money shall be spent in segregated schools. When it comes to a vote, liberal Democrats have no choice but to support the amendment, and together these diverse factions represent a majority in either house.

Then, when the amendment has been adopted, the opponents will switch their vote, and cast their ballots with Southern Democrats to kill the bill on final passage. This coalition of opponents and Southern Democrats also represents a majority in either house, and the bill, therefore cannot be passed.

Many Big Airports Lack Modern Radar Gear To Avert Collisions

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A factor behind the increased number of near-collisions between airplanes is the failure to equip the nation's airports with up-to-date radar facilities.

Other factors—such as crowded air and the intrusion of military planes—have also contributed. But officials who sit with their eyes glued to the radarscreens and their ears tuned to catch signals from approaching planes state that air traffic control centers simply do not have the radar facilities to ensure maximum safety.

This is true of New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Washington, Indianapolis, Detroit and Atlanta. In fact, nine of the Federal Aviation Agency's 26 traffic control centers are not even equipped with radar.

The FAA control center at Washington, D.C.'s National Airport, one of the busiest in the nation, is still using a radarscreen viewing screen, known as VG-1, which was produced for the Navy by General Electric for use on airplane carriers and battleships in World War II. It is so obsolete that General Electric no longer is making tubes for the VG-1.

Markers Slip Off

The FAA control center in Washington used the last of the old G.E. tubes about a month ago, since then has been using a custom-made tube that lasts about three hours, compared with the 7 to 10 day life of the old G.E. product.

Early in January the FAA installed a completely new ARSR-1 radar setup in Washington, produced by the Raytheon Company. The new receiver, antenna and transmitter equipment is excellent. Only trouble is it has a vertical viewing screen so that the little plexiglas markers which show where planes are located, slide off. Control towers could keep these markers on horizontal screens, but not on vertical ones. So the ARSR-1 radar viewing screen, which costs the taxpayers $15,000 each remains largely idle.

FAA controllers in Washington have had to fall back on the obsolete VG-1, which though admittedly inadequate, has a horizontal viewing screen on which the plexiglas markers can be moved about to chart the location of flying aircraft.

Distressed FAA chiefs now are tinkering with the idea of installing, perhaps in June, a French-made, 20-inch "s an conversion" radar screen as a replacement for the ARSR-1 and VG-1 screens.

The disturbing situation is by no means confined to the Washington area. FAA safety controllers have the same problems and the same inferior equipment to work with all over the country.

Too Many Military Planes

One reason for the outmoded radar is that with the heavy emphasis on military aviation, the unique radar needs of civilian flying have not kept pace with the enormous increase of air traffic flying at all altitudes, in all directions, in our congested airways.

"Even with the best radar equipment, which we do not have," said one air safety engineer, "it is unlikely that we could guarantee maximum air safety. There is, of course, a human factor in safety. The FAA controller's reply could not be printed.

Allegany High's Class A Champs Battle LaSalle Tonight

Camper Win Would Knot Title Race

Franklin Draws Paw Paw In Region 4 Opener Friday

LaSalle Could Take It All; Paynemen Top Ft. Hill, 66-47

LaSalle High School's Explorers will be given an opportunity to win the city basketball championship outright when they play Allegany High School's newly crowned county Class A champions tonight at 8 o'clock at SS. Peter & Paul gym.

If Coach George Geatz's Explorers are unable to sweep the season series with their West Side rivals the race for city honors will end in a triple tie.

At the present time LaSalle leads with a 2-1 record, Fort Hill is 2-2 and Allegany 1-2.

In the two series completed, Fort Hill split even with both Allegany and LaSalle. The Sentinels beat LaSalle on the Greenway Avenue court, 59-42, but lost the second game at SS. Peter & Paul gym, 68-51. Fort Hill beat the Campers, 55-50, at Fort Hill, but lost the series finale at Campobello, 59-46. LaSalle whipped Allegany on the latter's court, 66-56, and will try to repeat tonight on the Fayette Street floor.

Clash 77th Time
Last season LaSalle shared the city championship with Fort Hill's state Class A champions, each team having won three games and lost one.

Allegany and LaSalle will be tangling for the 77th time since their series started in 1921. The Campers lead 48-28 in wins but LaSalle has been making things interesting for Campobello teams, having won eight and lost nine of the games played in the past 8½ seasons.

George Visnovsky and Lou Buchan, Pennsylvania officials, will work tonight's contest.

Campers Cop "A" Crown

Coach Chester G. Payne's Campers qualified for the District One Class A tourney at North Hagerstown High School next Friday night by winning the playoff game for Allegany County honors Saturday night at Beall High School where they defeated the Fort Hill High Sentinels, 66-47.

Allegany led at the quarters, 13-12, 31-26 and 50-37 and after Fort Hill shaved the Campers' lead to eight points the Paynemen slammed in 14 points in the last three minutes to win by a decisive margin.

It was Allegany's 6th win in its last seven outings and advanced the Campers into the District tourney where they will tackle Frederick High School Friday. Allegany's overall record is 11 wins and nine losses. Fort Hill suffered its ninth loss against 12 triumphs.

Score 50 Pct. of Shots

In downing the Sentinels, Allegany turned in a 50 per cent shooting average from the field, meshing 25 of 50 shots to Ft. Hill's 17 out of 60. The winners hooped 16 of 28 free throws against Fort Hill's 13 out of 21. Three Fort Hill players, Donnie Lewis, Bill Sheetz and Leroy Henry, fouled out in the final stanza.

Allegany's Garys—Frishy and Shook—led the offensive with 20 and 18 tallies while Bobby Gaffney collected 11. Mervin Pope, a sophomore who saw limited action this season, excelled with his rebounding, and contributed eight points to the winning cause.

Charles Robinson was the game's leading scorer with a total of 24 points for Fort Hill. He collected nine goals and was 6-9 at the charity stripe.

Two Games Tomorrow

North Hagerstown (20-0) will windup its regular schedule Tuesday night by playing St. Maria Goretti High School. The Hubs meet Southern of Oakland in the district tourney Friday night.

Hyndman High School plays Southern Fulton of Wartonsburg Tuesday at Everett for the Class C championship of District 3 in Pennsylvania. LaSalle closes its season on Friday at Hyndman.

Box score of the Allegany-Fort Hill game:

	Att.	G.	F.	P.	FT
Allegany	17	9	2-4	4	20
Frishy	3	0	2-3	2	2

Terps To Play Cavaliers In ACC Tourney

Wolfpack Given Top Seeded Spot

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina State Sunday won the draw for the top seeded spot in the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament which starts here Thursday.

The University of North Carolina, which finished the regular ACC season tied with State for first place, was seeded second. Each had 10-2 conference records.

In two other tie-breaking draws, Duke won third seeding over Maryland and Wake Forest won sixth over Clemson. Virginia finished fifth and South Carolina eighth.

The tournament draw resulted in these pairings for the opening tournament games Thursday:

2 p.m.—Duke vs. Wake Forest

4 p.m.—North Carolina vs. Clemson

7:30 p. m. — North Carolina State vs. South Carolina

9:30 p. m. — Maryland vs. Virginia

The tournament decides the conference championship and its representative in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. championship.

North Carolina State, however, is on NCAA probation. If State should win here, the runner-up will go to the NCAA tournament.

Victorious in 18 consecutive games, the Old Germans will be shooting for the second half title and the season championship of the City Basketball League to night when they face the Loyal Order of Moose quint at Fort Hill High School at 8:30 o'clock.

The Old Germans began first half honors with a 10-0 record and are 8-0 for the second half race.

A victory for the Moose (7-1) would enable them to tie the Old Germans for first place.

In the first game of tonight's twin bill, the Forty & Eight Club will play the Old Exports at 7 o'clock.

American Skaters Retain Titles

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Two American collegians, David Jenkins and Carol Heiss, go back to their books this week after repeating as singles champions in the world figure skating competition.

The Americans turned back the challengers, 14 young men from nine countries and 15 women from eight nations.

Jenkins, 22, glided away with his third straight men's title Saturday night. His older brother, Hayes Alan, held the world title for four years, 1953 through 1957, and copped Olympic honors in 1946.

Miss Heiss, 19, junior at New York University, breezed to her fourth straight women's title Thursday night.

Jarvis, Marteney Beagles Win In Derby Trial Here

Eight Qualifiers Named For Winners Stakes April 11-12

Hounds owned by James Jarvis of Hollisville, Pa., and C. E. Marteney, Keyser, W. Va., were adjudged the winners in the qualifying Derby Trial of the Penn-Central Association held yesterday by the Allegany Beagle Club at the Barton Dairy Farm, McMullen Highway.

Jarvis' Brownie was the best of the 12 entries in the 13 inch class while Pearl's Blackie, owned by Marteney, headed a field of ten in the 15 inch class.

The 22 hounds were judged by Gene Glasser, Derry, Pa., and James Rager, Latrobe, Pa.

The four top hounds in each class qualified for the Penn-Central Derby Winners Stakes to be held by the Allegany Beagle Club, Saturday and Sunday, April 11 and 12. The association is composed of seven clubs. A derby is a hound born from January to December, 1958.

Summary of yesterday's trial:

13 INCH CLASS (12 ENTRIES)

1. Jarvis' Brownie, James Jarvis, Hollisville, Pa.

2. Oak Ridge Asta, Paul Diehl, Clayburg, Pa.

3. Gung Ho Thinker, Raymond McDonald, Hollisburg, Pa.

West Catholic High of Philadelphia, first half champions, extended their season winning streak to 22 matches when they defeated LaSalle in a Christian Brothers Rifle League test the past weekend by the close score of 49-24X to 49-19X.

According to league rules, when team scores are tied the deadlock is broken by totaling the X-tens on each side.

In other league action Calvert Hall, Baltimore, defeated Central Catholic, Canton, Ohio, 491-487.

Earlier in the week, the Ohioans won over Central Catholic, Pittsburgh, 487-473.

LaSalle's next postal match will be with Canton.

Hits Area High 652 With 34 In Final

Bill Maphis, Romney High School's sharpshooting junior, established an area scoring record of 652 points for a 21-game season when he fired 34 points on 11 field goals and 12-17 fouls as Coach Clyde Green's Pioneers finished their regular campaign with a 77-72 victory over the Bulldogs at Martinsburg High School on Saturday night.

Maphis bettered the previous season mark of Bruce May, of Hyndman (Pa.) High School who racked up 637 points over 27 games in 1954.

In scoring 249 goals and converting 154 of 208 free throws, Maphis increased his total points to 1,552 in three seasons of 61 games as a regular and that gives him an average of 25.4. His average for the current campaign was 31.0.

Prior to setting the new area record, Maphis shattered the point scoring and high average marks in the Potomac Valley Conference.

The win gave the Pioneers, a Class AA team, a sweep of its season series with the Class AAA Bulldogs. The Pioneers won the first game, 87-77, and their victory on Saturday gave them a season record of 19-2.

Donnie Schell paced Martinsburg with 12 goals and 27 points.

Albie Booth, Former Yale Gridder, Dies

Won Eight Varsity Letters In Three Sports In 1929-31

NEW YORK (AP)—Albert (Albie) Booth, one of Yale's greatest halfbacks and all-round athletes, died of a heart attack early Sunday. He was 51.

Booth, whose broken-field running feats of 1929-31 sent fans into near hysteria, collapsed after attending a Broadway play with his wife Saturday night. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital but died shortly after 2 a.m.

Booth, the manager of an ice cream company in New Haven, Conn., lived with his wife, the former Marion G. Noble, in Hamden, a New Haven suburb. They had two daughters.

In his football days, they called him "Little Boy Blue." "The Mighty Atom." "The Blue Band." "The Boy Wonder."

Small, light and tricky, Booth was elusive on the gridiron, a sharpshooter on the basketball court and a legendary hitter on the baseball diamond. He won eight varsity letters at Yale, missing a ninth only because of illness.

Played Three Sports

Captain of both the football and basketball teams at Yale in his senior year, 1931-32, he turned down the baseball captaincy "to give someone else a chance."

But football was Booth's great love, and his football exploits made him a legend in his own time. Just a shade over 5 feet 7 and weighing around 145 pounds, Booth was an all-round athlete in high school and preparatory school.

He burst into national prominence one Saturday afternoon in 1929, his sophomore year at Yale. He was sent in late in the second quarter against a powerful Army team led by the great Chris Cagle. Army seemed comfortably ahead 13-0.

Thrilled 80,000 Fans

Twice he led charges across Army's goal line. Then in a display of broken field running that left 80,000 screaming spectators limp, he ran back a punt 89 yards for a touchdown and neatly drove a kicked the third extra point. The final upset score was Yale 21, Army 13.

Opponents called him the hardest man to tackle who ever set foot on a football field. His sense of timing and change of pace fooled tacklers more than his sheer speed.

Born in New Haven, he and his brothers ran a milk route during their high school days, and he worked summers while at Yale to pay for his education.

He coached at Yale and New York University in the 30s, and again at Yale during World War II. He also was a top football official and last year refereed the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia.

Bev Hanson Wins Florida Tourney

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., fired a one-under-par 71 over the rain-swept PGA National Course Sunday to win the Golden Triangle Golf Tournament.

The round gave Miss Hanson a 36-hole total of 146.

Marilynn Smith of French Lick, Ind., the first day leader with 71, skied to a 78 Sunday and finished in a three-way tie for second at 149. Bracketed with her were Mickey Wright of Bonita, Calif., with a 74 Sunday, and Wilfrid Smith of St. Clair, Mich., with a final round 77.

Charles Robinson Cops Scoring Title In CVAL

Fort Hill Player's Average Is 18.5; Shook Runner-Up

Registering 185 points in 10 games for an average of 18.5, Charles Robinson, of Fort Hill High School, paced the scorers of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League for the 1958-59 season.

Gary Shook, of Allegany, the 1957-58 scoring champion, finished in the runner-up spot with an average of 17.8 and 160 points in nine games.

Dick Spencer, of North Hagerstown, also scored 160 points but he was in 10 games and his average was 16.0, third best in the league.

Tommy Ecton, of South Hagerstown, was fourth with 133 points in nine games for an average of 14.8, and was followed by Gary Frishy, of Allegany, with 126,

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A9Q 6 ♥A 10 6 ♦A 10 9 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Five hearts. A mere raise to four hearts would not be adequate. Up to this point you have not indicated that you have a hand of over minimum values. The sequence, one club, one heart, one spade, may be made on a rock bottom minimum. When partner jumps you should do more than make a forced raise. With two hearts and two diamonds, four hearts would be the proper call. The recommended sequence describes a singleton in the fourth suit.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠AQ 6 ♥AQJ 4 ♦KQJ 10 7 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	3 ♣	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Double. The appropriate way to show the strength of this hand is not by a reverse bid of three hearts or a jump bid in diamonds, both of which show a strong hand, but both of which might not allow for the possibility that your partner might have a spade suit.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠AQ 6 ♥K 2 ♦AK 4 ♠K 5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Two spades. This is perhaps a shade light for a reverse bid but we consider it proper procedure in order to guard against being out of the spade suit. Partner should realize that you opened with one diamond in anticipation of rebidding one spade over a possible heart response and developments have put you in position where you must make a slightly aggressive bid.

Q. 6—With 60 part score your partner opens one club. You hold:

♠K 6 ♥KQJ 10 5 ♦AK 6 3 ♣A 2

What is your response?

A—One heart. A jump shift is not recommended at this point. It is better to get in one free round of bidding which may permit a better basis for the decision on the next round. True enough a jump shift would be forcing though it completes the game. Nevertheless, with a partner of uncertain quality, the safer procedure is to bid one heart which even the most timid player will not pass.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠K J 6 5 3 ♥8 7 ♦K 3 ♣K Q 6 5

What do you bid now?

A—One spade. The jump shift is not indicated though you passed an optional opening. If partner has some shaded third hand opening with nothing in spades, you do not wish to apply the pressure. If he has a sound hand he will bid again and then will come your try for game.

Owner Of Car Involved In Crash Charged

Driver Of Auto Remains Critical

City police have placed a motor vehicle charge against the owner of one of four automobiles involved in a Saturday night smash-up which injured four persons. Other charges face the drivers of two of the vehicles, police added, pending the outcome of the injuries to the four teen-aged youths.

Billy Eugene Davis, 633 Elm Street, was charged with permitting an unauthorized person to use his automobile. Police said William Leasure, 18, of 507 North Centre Street, most critically injured of the four, was driving Davis' car.

Young Leasure is listed in "critical" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital with severe head injuries.

Also injured in the spectacular collision on Bedford Street which wrecked four automobiles was Vincent R. Eversole, 19, of 635 Columbia Avenue, a passenger in the car driven by Leasure; Harry Gough, 17, of 214 Wills Creek Avenue, identified as the other driver; and William Schoenadel, 18, of 923 Maryland Avenue, a passenger with young Gough.

Three In "Good" Condition

Police said Eversole complained of a stiffness in his neck and had deep lacerations over the left eye and on his chin, and abrasions of his body. Gough had both legs lacerated, and Schoenadel had lacerations of the forehead and body bruises. All are said to be in "good" condition at the hospital, where they were admitted shortly after the accident at 11:25 p.m. Saturday.

Investigating officers said last night one of the youths admitted they were racing when the collision occurred.

Police constructed the events this way:

The car driven by young Leasure struck a vehicle owned by James H. Thacher, 1015 Bedford Street, and parked in front of his home. The impact pushed the Thacher car 41 feet and against the side of the porch of the residence of Jack Day at 1013 Bedford Street.

The car then careened 105 feet further down the streets where it was struck by the car operated by Gough, who had been traveling just behind Leasure.

Gough, applying his brakes in an attempt to avoid striking the automobile driven by Leasure, went into a spin, struck another parked vehicle owned by Charles E. Lindner, 1010 Bedford Street, and then careened into the Leasure machine. Lindner's car was shoved 10 feet upon the sidewalk.

Traffic Rerouted

The collision attracted a large crowd and city police were aided by state policemen in rerouting traffic over Frederick Street around the milling crowd and the wreckage.

Officers estimated more than $4,500 in damage to the four automobiles and the porch of the Day residence. They said one of the parked cars was a 1959 sedan, newly purchased, and it was demolished beyond repair. Excessive damage also was done to the hedge, grass and porch of the house which was hit.

Police also said Davis, owner of the car which started the chain accident, is not insured.

Members of the East Side Fire Station hosed down the area after the collision to clear the street of debris and spilled gasoline.

Police Probe Two Thefts

City Police are investigating two reported housebreakings, one of which is believed to have occurred last Tuesday.

Mrs. Sylvia Baker, 447 Baltimore Avenue, told authorities someone broke into her second floor apartment and stole a radio and record player and a quantity of canned goods. Other items not yet accounted for also are believed to have been taken, police said.

Mrs. Baker was away from home for several days and found the entry yesterday upon her return.

Also reported missing is some clothing, and a wallet containing $1, which police were told was possibly taken from the residence of Carl Shewbridge, 3 Decatur Street.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mahaney, Hagerstown, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday in Washington County Hospital in Washington.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Mahaney, LaVale.

Pvt. and Mrs. Ronald Barber, Aberdeen, announce the birth of a daughter Tuesday in the Aberdeen Army Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Marlene Wilson of Lonaconing. The father is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Barber of Barton.

Memorial Hospital
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Borghman, Lonaconing, a son Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walls, 11 Frederick Street, a son Saturday night.

Pupils Give Check To Help Others

Second and third grade pupils of Gehart Elementary School present a $5 check to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The two grades had the largest number of parents in attendance at a PTA meeting and were awarded

Choral Society To Present Brahms Program Tonight

The Cumberland Choral Society will present Johannes Brahms' "Requiem" and "Liebeslieder Waltzes" tonight in Allegany High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. Charles I. Sager of Frostburg State Teachers College will direct the 60-voice group.

Resources Bill To Get Hearing In Legislature

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Another proposed shuffling of Maryland agencies will be aired by the Legislature Tuesday at 10:30 a. m.

A new administrative setup for the Board of Natural Resources will be explored at a hearing by the House Ways and Means Committee.

It is the plan of Del. Whitmore (D-Anne Arundel). However, Gov. Tawes declined to give it a nod of approval.

Instead he has submitted a change in the Tidewater Fisheries Commission patterned after the way he wants the State Roads Commission revised.

Would Expand Board

The present three-member commissions would be increased to seven with the daily operation largely in the hands of a career director.

Del. Whitmore wants the Board of Natural Resources to be composed of 19 members appointed by the governor. It now has eight appointed members and five department heads.

The separate commissions would be abolished for the six departments of Forests and Parks, Game and Inland Fish, Tidewater Fisheries, Geology, Research and Education, and Water Pollution Control.

They would be replaced by three-man committees acting as liaison between the directors of each department and the board.

Fireworks Over Fireworks

Fireworks are expected to create some at another hearing Tuesday. The Senate Judiciary Committee will receive reaction to a request that pistol caps and sparklers be exempt from the ban on the sale of fireworks in Maryland.

William G. Ewald, representing retail merchants in the state, and John H. Copping, deputy insurance commissioner, are reported ready to oppose the sale of sparklers. They had been ready to endorse the sale of caps only.

A familiar legislative subject, billboards, will be debated Wednesday by the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill would allow outdoor advertising signs adjacent to expressways running through incorporated cities.

The Legislature earlier this session banned billboards within 600 feet of expressways. Outdoor advertising interests then introduced a bill to permit them within the limits of municipality.

Oyster Debate

Another old matter, Potomac River oysters, will be debated Wednesday afternoon by the Senate Chesapeake Bay Committee.

The Legislature is being asked to permit use of mechanical tongs to gather oysters in the Potomac. Only hand tongs are legal now.

Lawyers will wrestle Wednesday morning with a suggested new definition for legal insanity. The House Judiciary Committee also will consider arranging for providing faster medical attention in emergencies for the mentally ill.

Knights Templar To Confer Degrees

Antioch Commandery 6, Knights Templar, will confer the illustrious Order of the Red Cross and the Order of Malta at its convocation tomorrow night at the Masonic Temple.

Joseph Davis, commander, said final arrangements will be made at the convocation for the reception of Etribel A. Schaub, grand commander of Maryland, and his staff, who will visit Antioch Commandery March 17.

Welfare Unit Opposes Plan For Game Area

Damage To Office Building Feared

The City Recreation Department's plan to develop more neighborhood basketball areas hit a snag from an unexpected source when the County Welfare Department opposed one at the rear of the Welfare Building at the intersection of Cumberland and Lee streets.

John J. Long, the city's commissioner of streets and public property, had suggested to the Board of County Commissioners that the rear of the Welfare Department Building, a former public school, would be an ideal location for a basketball area.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, welfare director, objected on the grounds that the youngsters might break windows at the rear of the building and the noise would interfere with work inside the structure.

At its meeting Friday, the Board of County Commissioners voted to refund a $100 bond to William K. Schell, Apartment 4C, Jane Frazier Village, through his attorney, Gorman E. Getty.

Mr. Getty wrote the county commissioners that his client had posted a $100 cash bond with Trial Magistrate William Meagher of Cresaptown upon his arrest last November 26 on an assault charge. He added that Mr. Schell was not notified of the date of his hearing and charged that Mr. Meagher improperly forfeited the $100 bond which was turned over to the county commissioners with Mr. Meagher's December report.

Ultimately, Mr. Schell's case was heard in Trial Magistrate's Court in Cumberland, February 24, and he was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence and paid a $10 fine and costs.

Estelle S. Bradley, Wyma Park Apartments, Baltimore, wrote the county commissioners complaining because William Miller and Edmund Taschenberg refused to grant the county the necessary rights-of-way so that Cresap Mill Run Road could be hard surfaced. She said the road dates from before the days of the Civil War and is still a horse and buggy road.

J. Goodloe Jackson, 610 Shriver Avenue, wrote to the county commissioners to commend them for their action in writing Governor J. Millard Tawes requesting him to notify them before signing into law any measure affecting Allegany County financially.

The board of directors of Hercules Powder Company has declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock, payable March 25 to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 11. This compares with a dividend of 20 cents per share paid at the end of the first quarter last year.

Declare Dividend

The board of directors of Hercules Powder Company has declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock, payable March 25 to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 11. This compares with a dividend of 20 cents per share paid at the end of the first quarter last year.

In the field of unemployment, he talked with a delegation from Garrett County concerning unemployment there. He heard it claimed that upwards of 40 percent of the county's labor force is idle, and several areas of assistance other than relief were aired.

He met with a group from Barton concerning the town's limited water supply and discussed the possibility of grants or loans to help the town with several problems. There were several persons who had individual or personal problems, such as a veteran who needed some of his Armed Forces records corrected, another concerned about his rights of hospitalization, and several requests for government publications. One man wanted a book on "How to Raise Earthworms."

Congressman Foley took all this in his stride and where further investigation seemed necessary, he promised speedy action. Mrs. Anne B. Everline, his secretary, said she will spend a couple of days transcribing the volume of notes she took during these interviews, so that Mr. Foley's staff in Washington can help.

While here, Rep. Foley addressed the LaVale volunteer firemen at their annual banquet Saturday night, and yesterday he talked to the Men of Beth Jacob Synagogue at their monthly meeting.

Rep. Fey, former Cumberlander who now is president of the University of Vermont, is having some unusual troubles these days. His school is getting too big.

It seems that the university has been getting help from a $2.3 million trust fund for nearly 30 years, but may lose the $84,000 it provides annually in scholarships if the university's college of arts and sciences keeps growing.

The Washington Post and Times-Herald yesterday said James B. Wilbur set up the fund in his will in 1929. But he provided that the money would be forfeited to the Library of Congress if the arts and sciences enrollment of the university allowed its college to exceed 1,000.

Over the years, however, the enrollment limitation has been raised to 1,062 on the basis of a fund provision which allows an

Brush Fire Regulations In Effect

District Forester Urges Compliance

Maryland's controlled burning season has arrived and District Forester William H. Johnson reminded area residents that the regulations will continue in effect through the three spring months of March, April and May.

Last year, one bad fire marred an otherwise splendid record for the four-county Western Maryland district which Mr. Johnson serves. That single blaze last April burned more than 200 acres on Haystack Mountain.

The 50 woods and forest fires reported in the four counties in 1958 burned a total of 346.19 acres. Allegany County was charged with 22 of the fires and they burned 319.75 acres. That did not leave much for Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties combined.

During March, April and May, regulations prohibit open air burning except between 4 p. m. and midnight EST or when the ground is covered with snow and then only in compliance with certain conditions.

The conditions include a fire break at least ten feet wide completely around the material to be burned. There must also be present adequate personnel and equipment to prevent the fire from escaping and there must be at least one responsible person at the location until the last spark is out.

Penalty for violating these burning regulations is a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than six months.

Oldtown Area Gets Garbage Collections

Garbage collections have been started in the Oldtown area, the Health Department announced yesterday.

The collections are being made by A. W. Chaney, Oldtown Road, according to J. Byron Dowling, chief of the sanitation section of the Health Department.

Some 103 customers are being served on the garbage collection route, he said.

The debris is being hauled to a dump located on property known as the Layton farm fronting on Bear Hill Road.

He said the Health Department gave permission to establish the dump, adding it is located in an ideal site, miles away from any home.

The plaintiffs state in their declaration that they own a dwelling, well and septic tank on Forest Avenue in Bowmans Addition. The defendants own and operate a gasoline service station with two storage tanks, two pumps and a pipeline leading from the tanks to the pumps.

During last May and June, the defendants are accused of allowing gasoline to escape, which the plaintiffs say destroyed their well and septic tank. This damaged their plumbing and compelled the plaintiffs to haul water for their own needs.

To prevent the loss of income from the fund, Mr. Fey is asking Congress for help. He has sent drafts of a resolution to Vermont Senators George D. Aiken and Winston L. Prouty asking Congress to petition the Vermont courts for removal of the limitation.

Mr. Fey, former Cumberlander and member of the House of Delegates, was dean of the law school at George Washington University before becoming clerk to the U.S. Supreme Court, a position he gave up to become president of the university over a year ago.

55 Students Will Attend Youth Session

Model Assembly April 16-18

A group of 55 delegates from Allegany County will attend the 1959 Youth and Government program's pre-legislative session Saturday at the University of Maryland, B. U. Smith, Central YMCA advisor to the students, said last night.

These will include 45 registered delegates and 10 alternates who will be permitted to attend the session for the first time this year.

These delegates represent the nine senior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs in Allegany, Fort Hill, Beall, Valley and Bruce high schools. They will leave Cumberland shortly after 4 a. m. Saturday and will return the same evening.

The group, which hopes to sponsor at least 12 legislative bills, will be accompanied by Mr. Smith, general secretary of the YMCA here; William E. Lewis, former YMCA secretary, and Walter Hutchins of Frostburg.

Included in the delegation are the county's nominees for major offices in the 16th annual Maryland Youth and Government session at Annapolis April 16-18. The elections will be held Saturday at College Park.

Nominees are Donald Dowell, Allegany High School, for governor; Phil Beeman, Beall High, president of the Senate; John McIntyre, Bruce High, speaker of the House; Leland Ransom, Allegany, clerk of the House; Karl VanNewkirk, Beall, clerk of the Senate; Dorothy Hill, Beall, chaplain of the House; Bonnie Kookin, Bruce, chaplain of the Senate; and Carolyn Cook, Beall, delegation leader.

Last year the Allegany County Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y delegation submitted a similar slate, with five being elected to the top posts in the legislature. Two other positions also went to representatives of the local YMCA.

Last year William Sitter, student at Allegany, was governor, while Miss Carole Ransom, also of Allegany, was speaker of the House. Emily Tucker of Allegany was chaplain of the Senate; Dorthea Harper of Fort Hill was assistant clerk of the House; Ronald Broadwater, Bruce, was assistant clerk of the Senate; David Rowley, Fort Hill, was commissioner of education; and Gordon Stevenson, Valley High, was commissioner of transportation.

Also last year, Patricia Mitchell of Bruce and Judy Ritchie of Allegany represented the Allegany County delegation as members of the press bureau.

Stores Adopt Policy For Good Friday

Workers in most Cumberland retail stores will receive time off to attend religious services on Good Friday, according to the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber's Retail Merchants Association has recommended that all member stores adopt the policy.

Under the recommendation, time off will be given, either in the morning or afternoon, to any employee who wishes to attend religious services on Good Friday.

The association adopted this policy, rather than a suggestion for closing stores from noon until 3 p. m., since not all churches schedule Good Friday services at the same time and the broader policy will serve the needs of all better than a shutdown.

Suit Filed Over Well Damage

A $15,000 damage suit charging destruction of a well and septic tank by escaping gasoline has been filed by Allegany County Circuit Court.

Marvin Clem and Annabell Clem, his wife, who live on Forest Avenue in Bowmans Addition, through Attorneys William Walsh and William C. Walsh, filed the $15,000 action against James H. Brotemarkle and Elva Brotemarkle, his wife.

The plaintiffs state in their declaration that they own a dwelling, well and septic tank on Forest Avenue in Bowmans Addition. The defendants own and operate a gasoline service station with two storage tanks, two pumps and a pipeline leading from the tanks to the pumps.

During last May and June, the defendants are accused of allowing gasoline to escape, which the plaintiffs say destroyed their well and septic tank. This damaged their plumbing and compelled the plaintiffs to haul water for their own needs.

To Meet Today

A meeting of Boy Scout commissioners of Nemaconlin Trail District, Potomac Council, will be held today at 8 p. m. in the home demonstration room of the Potomac Edison Company, 112 Union Street.

M. G. Thompson, district commissioner, said a special feature of the meeting will be a discussion by James C. Warden, former organization and extension chairman for Potomac Council.

WILLIAM H. SHOCKLEY

Former Local Man Heads RCI Paper Division

A former local man has been placed in charge of the newly created Paper Division of Reichhold Chemicals, Inc., White Plains, N. Y.

He is William H. Shockley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harvey Shockley, 210 Schley Street.

In addition to heading the new division, he will serve as product sales manager of the company.

Before accepting the Reichhold Chemicals post, he served as technical director of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's Tyrone, Pa., mill, where he was in charge of quality control, paper mill trials, pulp mill trials, product development and customer service.

Prior to his Westvaco post, he was employed by the Crown-Zellerbach Corporation of San Francisco in its paper mills located in Washington, where he was assistant technical director and shift superintendent of the sulfite mill. He also later held the position of new products engineer, where new additives for paper making were examined and new products were developed.

He also spent eight years with the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton, Wis.

His office is located in White Plains, N. Y., and he and his wife and their three children are residing in Westchester County, N. Y.

Barton Water Supply Plans Are Advanced

Plans to secure federal help for expanding the water supply of the Town of Barton were advanced here Saturday as a Barton Citizens Committee met with U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall and Rep. John R. Foley.

The committee was composed of Mayor Arthur Hoffa, Maurice Lamberson, town treasurer, and John Bradley, councilman, for the town, and Jack O'Rourke, John A. Shubart and J. Irvin Martin, for the Barton Legion.

The group met with Rep. Foley, who advised he will contact his office to learn what federal aid is available and advise Mr. Hoffa.

Later the group conferred with Senator Beall in his office here. Sen. Beall advised that federal aid could be secured for the work when Mr. Hoffa sends a formal request to his office.

The Senator said he then could arrange for the start of a water survey for the community.

A supply to meet the needs of about 2,000 people is sought.

St. Paul's Church Women To Meet

The United Lutheran Church Women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Sunday school room of the church.

New members will be received at the meeting. Officers urged that all members attend, as the meeting will be the last quarterly session to be held in the old building and there are several important items to be discussed.

Girl Reports Escape After Police Slaying

Man Still Wanted; Fled Through Area

FREDERICK (AP)—A 16-year-old girl told Frederick City Police she was with a man when he shot and killed a West Virginia police chief and escaped from him when he tried to shoot her in a car near Frederick.

Frederick Police Chief Charles Main identified the girl as Nancy Jean Sedlock, 16, a runaway from Erie, Mich. She is being held for questioning.

The girl, Main said, related that she was with a youth whom she identified as Doug Parker, 19, believed to be from Lynchburg, Va., when Police Chief Amos Morris, 49, of Mannington, W. Va., was shot to death near Fairmont, W. Va. Saturday morning.

Main reported that the girl said she and Parker fled from Fairmont in a car immediately after the shooting and arrived here about 7 p. m. Saturday.

Tried To Shoot Girl

They got into an argument in the car, she told Main, and the man tried to shoot her, but she managed to escape. She said she wandered around Frederick streets until 3:30 p. m. Sunday and then surrendered.

The girl said Morris had come from Mannington to Fairmont, a distance of about 10 miles, to pick her up and return her to her Michigan home.

She said when they got outside of Fairmont, Morris was shot five times as they drove in the officer's police car. Morris' cruiser was found inside the Fairmont city limits near the Hampton Road district. His body was found about seven miles outside of the city on U. S. 250.

Marion County, W. Va. Prosecutor Paul E. Parker Jr. and Sheriff J. Max Gill were to go to Frederick Sunday night from Fairmont. State and county officers were to accompany them.

Main did not say where the girl and the youth had met originally, or how long they had been together.

"Armed, Dangerous"

Police are still hunting for Parker, who was driving a 1956 two-tone dark blue and light blue Ford bearing West Virginia license plates.

Earlier, West Virginia State Police Sgt. E. D. Hamilton said the young man was considered armed and dangerous.

Five bullet holes, from a small caliber pistol, were found in Morris' body.

Still to be established, Hamilton said, was a motive for the shooting.

Seen In Mt. Storm

Authorities, piecing together details of the case, said Morris picked up the young couple at a Mannington service station after their car had broken down. The car, bearing a Virginia license tag, was found in Mannington. The car's ownership has been traced. Authorities believe the car was borrowed and not stolen.

Police learned that the couple went from house to house, in the vicinity of where the cruiser was found, seeking a ride to U. S. 5

Owner Of Car Involved In Crash Charged

Driver Of Auto Remains Critical

City police have placed a motor vehicle charge against the owner of one of four automobiles involved in a Saturday night smash-up which injured four persons. Other charges face the drivers of two of the vehicles, police added, pending the outcome of the injuries to the four teen-aged youths.

Billy Eugene Davis, 633 Elm Street, was charged with permitting an unauthorized person to use his automobile. Police said William Leasure, 18, of 507 North Centre Street, most critically injured of the four, was driving Davis' car.

Young Leasure is listed in "critical" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital with severe head injuries.

Also injured in the spectacular collision on Bedford Street which wrecked four automobiles were Vincent R. Eversole, 19, of 635 Columbia Avenue, a passenger in the car driven by Leasure; Harry Gough, 17, of 214 Mills Creek Avenue, identified as the other driver; and William Schoenadel, 18, of 923 Maryland Avenue, a passenger with young Gough.

Three In "Good" Condition

Police said Eversole complained of a stiffness in his neck and had deep lacerations over the left eye and on his chin, and abrasions of his body. Gough had both legs lacerated, and Schoenadel had lacerations of the forehead and body bruises. All are said to be in "good" condition at the hospital, where they were admitted shortly after the accident at 11:25 p.m. Saturday.

Investigating officers said last night one of the youths admitted they were racing when the collision occurred.

Police constructed the events this way:

The car driven by young Leasure struck a vehicle owned by James H. Thacher, 1015 Bedford Street, and parked in front of his home. The impact pushed the Thacher car 41 feet and against the side of the porch of the residence of Jack Day at 1013 Bedford Street.

The car then careened 105 feet further down the streets where it was struck by the car operated by Gough, who had been traveling just behind Leasure.

Gough, applying his brakes in an attempt to avoid striking the automobile driven by Leasure, went into a spin, struck another parked vehicle owned by Charles E. Lindner, 1010 Bedford Street, and then careened into the Leasure machine. Lindner's car was shoved 10 feet upon the sidewalk.

Traffic Rerouted

The collision attracted a large crowd and city police were aided by state policemen in rerouting traffic over Frederick Street around the milling crowd and the wreckage.

Officers estimated more than $4,500 in damage to the four automobiles and the porch of the Day residence. They said one of the parked cars was a 1959 sedan, newly purchased, and it was demolished beyond repair. Excessive damage also was done to the hedge, grass and porch of the house which was hit.

Police also said Davis, owner of the car which started the chain accident, is not insured.

Members of the East Side Fire Station hosed down the area after the collision to clear the street of debris and spilled gasoline.

Police Probe Two Thefts

City Police are investigating two reported housebreakings, one of which is believed to have occurred last Tuesday.

Mrs. Sylvia Baker, 447 Baltimore Avenue, told authorities someone broke into her second floor apartment and stole a radio and record player and a quantity of canned goods. Other items not yet accounted for also are believed to have been taken, police said.

Mrs. Baker was away from home for several days and found the entry yesterday upon her return.

Also reported missing is some clothing, and a wallet containing $1, which police were told was possibly taken from the residence of Carl Shewbridge, 3 Decatur Street.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mahaney, Hagerstown, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday in Washington County Hospital there. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Mahaney, LaVale.

Pvt. and Mrs. Ronald Barber, Aberdeen, announce the birth of a daughter Tuesday in the Aberdeen Army Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Marlene Wilson of Lonaconing. The father is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Barber of Barton.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Borz, Lonaconing, a son Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walls, 11 Frederick Street, a son Saturday night.

Pupils Give Check To Help Others

Second and third grade pupils of Gephart Elementary School present a $5 check to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegheny-Garrett County Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The two grades had the largest number of parents in attendance at a PTA meeting and were awarded

Choral Society To Present Brahms Program Tonight

The Cumberland Choral Society will present Johannes Brahms' "Requiem" and "Liebeslieder Waltzes" tonight in Allegheny High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. Charles L. Sager of Frostburg State Teachers College will direct the 60-voice group.

Resources Bill To Get Hearing In Legislature

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Another proposed shuffling of Maryland agencies will be aired by the Legislature Tuesday at 10:30 a. m.

A new administrative setup for the Board of Natural Resources will be explored at a hearing by the House Ways and Means Committee.

It is the plan of Del. Whitmore (D-Anne Arundel). However, Gov. Tawes declined to give it a nod of approval.

Instead he has submitted a change in the Tidewater Fisheries Commission patterned after the way he wants the State Roads Commission revised.

Would Expand Board

The present three-member commissions would be increased to seven with the daily operation largely in the hands of a career director.

Del. Whitmore wants the Board of Natural Resources to be composed of 19 members appointed by the governor. It now has eight appointed members and five department heads.

The separate commissions would be abolished for the six departments of Forests and Parks, Game and Inland Fish, Tidewater Fisheries, Geology, Research and Education, and Water Pollution Control.

They would be replaced by three-man committees acting as liaison between the directors of each department and the board.

Fireworks Over Fireworks

Fireworks are expected to create some at another hearing Tuesday. The Senate Judiciary Committee will receive reaction to a request that pistol caps and sparklers be exempt from the ban on the sale of fireworks in Maryland.

William G. Ewald, representing retail merchants in the state, and John H. Coppage, deputy insurance commissioner, are reported ready to oppose the sale of sparklers. They had been ready to endorse the sale of caps only.

A familiar legislative subject, billboards, will be debated Wednesday by the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill would allow outdoor advertising signs adjacent to expressways running through incorporated cities.

The Legislature earlier this session banned billboards within 660 feet of expressways. Outdoor advertising interests then introduced a bill to permit them within the limits of municipalities.

Oyster Debate

Another old matter, Potomac River oysters, will be debated Wednesday afternoon by the Senate Chesapeake Bay Committee. The Legislature is being asked to permit use of mechanical tongs to gather oysters in the Potomac.

Only hand tongs are legal now. Lawyers will wrestle Wednesday morning with a suggested new definition for legal insanity. The House Judiciary Committee also will consider arranging for providing faster medical attention in emergencies for the mentally ill.

Knights Templar To Confer Degrees

Antioch Commandery 6, Knights Templar, will confer the illustrious Order of the Red Cross and the Order of Malta to its convalescing members tomorrow night at the Masonic Temple.

Joseph Davis, commander, said final arrangements will be made at the conclave for the reception of Etribel A. Schaub, grand commander of Maryland, and his staff, who will visit Antioch Commandery March 17.

Welfare Unit Opposes Plan For Game Area

Damage To Office Building Feared

The City Recreation Department's plan to develop more neighborhood basketball areas hit a snag from an unexpected source when the County Welfare Department opposed one at the rear of the Welfare Building at the intersection of Cumberland and Lee streets.

John J. Long, the city's commissioner of streets and public property, had suggested to the Board of County Commissioners that the rear of the Welfare Department Building, a former public school, would be an ideal location for a basketball area.

Miss Ethel Wilderman, welfare director, objected on the grounds that the youngsters might break windows at the rear of the building and the noise would interfere with work inside the structure.

At its meeting Friday, the Board of County Commissioners voted to refund a $100 bond to William K. Schell, Apartment 4C, Jane Frazier Village, through his attorney, Gorman E. Getty.

Mr. Getty wrote the county commissioners that his client had posted a $100 cash bond with Trial Magistrate William Meagher of Cresaptown upon his arrest last November 26 on an assault charge. He added that Mr. Schell was not notified of the date of his hearing and charged that Mr. Meagher improperly forfeited the $100 bond which was turned over to the county commissioners with Mr. Meagher's December report.

Ultimately, Mr. Schell's case was heard in Trial Magistrate's Court in Cumberland, February 24, and he was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence and paid a $10 fine and costs.

Estelle S. Bradley, Wyman Park Apartments, Baltimore, wrote the county commissioners complaining because William Miller and Edmund Taschenberg refused to grant the county the necessary rights-of-way so that Cresap Mill Run Road could be hard surfaced. She said the road dates from before the days of the Civil War and is still a horse and buggy road.

J. Goodloe Jackson, 610 Shriver Avenue, wrote to the county commissioners to commend them for their action in writing Governor J. Millard Taves requesting him to notify them before signing into law any measure affecting Allegheny County financially.

Declare Dividend

The board of directors of Hercules Powder Company has declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock, payable March 25 to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 11. This compares with a dividend of 20 cents per share paid at the end of the first quarter last year.

55 Students Will Attend Youth Session

Model Assembly April 16-18

A group of 55 delegates from Allegheny County will attend the 1959 Youth and Government program's pre-legislative session Saturday at the University of Maryland, B. U. Smith, Central YMCA advisor to the students, said last night.

These will include 45 registered delegates and 10 alternates who will be permitted to attend the session for the first time this year.

These delegates represent the nine senior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs in Allegheny, Fort Hill, Beall, Valley and Bruce high schools. They will leave Cumberland shortly after 4 a. m. Saturday and will return the same evening.

The group, which hopes to sponsor at least 12 legislative bills, will be accompanied by Mr. Smith, general secretary of the YMCA here; William E. Lewis, former YMCA secretary, and Walter Hutchins of Frostburg.

Included in the delegation are the county's nominees for major offices in the 16th annual Maryland Youth and Government session at Annapolis April 16-18. The elections will be held Saturday at College Park.

Nominees are Donald Dowell, Allegheny High School, for governor; Phil Beeman, Beall High, president of the Senate; John McIntyre, Bruce High, speaker of the House; Leland Ransom, Allegheny, clerk of the House; Karl VanNewkirk, Beall, clerk of the Senate; Dorothy Hill, Beall, chaplain of the House; Bonnie Kooker, Bruce, chaplain of the Senate; and Carolyn Cook, Beall, delegation leader.

Last year the Allegheny County Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y delegation submitted a similar slate, with five being elected to the top posts in the legislature. Two other positions also went to representatives of the local YMCA.

Last year William Sitter, student at Allegheny, was governor, while Miss Carole Ransom, also of Allegheny, was speaker of the House. The association adopted this policy, rather than a suggestion for closing stores from noon until 3 p. m., since not all churches schedule Good Friday services at the same time and the broader policy will serve the needs of all better than a shutdown.

Suit Filed Over Well Damage

A $15,000 damage suit charging destruction of a well and septic tank by escaping gasoline has been filed by Allegheny County Circuit Court.

Marvin Clem and Annabell Clem, his wife, who live on Forest Avenue in Bowmans Addition, through Attorneys William Walsh and William C. Walsh, filed the $15,000 action against James H. Brotemarkle and Elva Brotemarkle, his wife.

They got into an argument in the car, she told Main, and the man tried to shoot her, but she managed to escape. She said she wandered around Frederick streets until 3:30 p. m. Sunday and then surrendered.

The girl said Morris had come from Mannington to Fairmont, a distance of about 10 miles, to pick her up and return her to her Michigan home.

She said when they got outside of Fairmont, Morris was shot five times as they drove in the officer's police car. Morris' cruiser was found inside the Fairmont city limits near the Hampton Road district. His body was found about seven miles outside of the city on U. S. 250.

Marion County, W. Va. Prosecutor Paul E. Parker Jr. and Sheriff J. Max Gill were to go to Frederick Sunday night from Fairmont. State and county officers were to accompany them.

Main did not say where the girl and the youth had met originally, or how long they had been together.

"Armed, Dangerous"

Police are still hunting for Parker, who was driving a 1956 two-tone dark blue and light blue Ford bearing West Virginia license plates.

Earlier, West Virginia State Police Sgt. E. D. Hamilton said the young man was considered armed and dangerous.

Five bullet holes, from a small caliber pistol, were found in Morris' body.

Still to be established, Hamilton said, was a motive for the shooting.

Seen In Mt. Storm

Authorities, piecing together details of the case, said Morris picked up the young couple at a Mannington service station after their car had broken down. The car, bearing a Virginia license tag, was found in Mannington. The car's ownership has been traced. Authorities believe the car was borrowed and not stolen.

Police learned that the couple went from house to house, in the vicinity of where the cruiser was found, seeking a ride to U. S. 50. A woman was quoted that the man said his mother was sick in a Richmond hospital and he was trying to get there. The woman drove the couple to U. S. 50.

The couple was seen later Saturday in a restaurant at Mount Storm, a tiny Grant County community on U. S. 50 near the Maryland border.

Flower Show Seminar Set

Local gardeners and flower enthusiasts have been invited to attend a seminar on flower arranging, horticulture and exhibiting this week in Baltimore.

The seminar, which is course III of the Flower Show Schools being sponsored by District Four of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland, Inc., will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

Mrs. Zeldia Wyatt Schulte of Brecksville, Ohio, will be instructor in flower arranging. A well-known lecturer and writer, Mrs. Schulte will speak on monochromatic flower harmonies, and on design, with emphasis on line, form, pattern and balance. She also will discuss various types of corsages.

Frank Curto, horticulturist for the Department of Parks and Recreation in Pittsburgh and garden editor of the Pittsburgh Sunday Sun-Telegraph, will speak on horticulture.

Mrs. Milton Hescok of Marion, N. Y., an accredited instructor and flower show judge, will speak on flower show practice.

Deadline For Test Applications Near

Wednesday at 4 p. m. is the deadline for applications for the Allegheny County Civil Service Board tests for orderlies and practical nurses, according to Mrs. Joan S. Burke, board secretary.

She said very few persons have obtained applications from her office, which is the Law Library on the second floor of the Court House.

Both Civil Service tests will be given on Wednesday, March 11.
